The above is the oldest company doing business in this state, and with peculiar propriety has been denominated "The Old Hartford." THE above are First Class, justly popular, and prompt paying companies. They invite investigation into their condition and solicit business entirely upon their real merits. In point of solvency and reliability and honorable dealing, they have but few equals, and no superiors. They are founded upon the very best securities in the world—first class bonds and mortgages upon property in New York and Brooklyn—securities that have not, for the past ten years, depreciated below par, and are every way more reliable and permanent than railroad, bank, and other stocks, which are subject to the fluctuations of the market, and liable, in times of panic, as the experience of the past teaches, to become almost, if not entirely, valueless. And while there are Companies entering the field of competition, well calculated to mislead by publishing partial and one-sided statements of their condition, and without a cash surplus on hand sufficient to reinsure their outstanding risks, the above named companies always have and keep over and above their capital twice the amount, and in most instances four times, needed for the reinsurance of all their risks. With such a foundation, and with such a condition, they claim the right to look with confidence to the public for liberal patronage.

Policies issued without delay, and farms risks for a series of years taken at less rates than can be done by Mutual Companies, and a certainty given instead of an uncertainty. All losses promptly adjusted and paid.

SPEECH OF HON. CHAS. SUMNER.

The Republican Party—Its Origin, its Necessity and its Permanence.

Delivered July 11, in Cooper Institute, N. Y.

From the New York Times, 12th.

FELLOW CITIZENS OF NEW YORK:—Of all men in our history, there are two whose influence at this moment is most peculiar. Though dead, they yet live, speak and act in the conflict of principles which divides the country—standing face to face like two well-matched champions. When I add that one was from South Carolina and the other from Massachusetts, you will see at once that I mean John C. Calhoun and John Quincy Adams.

Statesmen both of long career, of marked ability, and of unblemished integrity—acting together at first—sitting in the same cabinet—one to become Vice President and the other President, then for the remainder of their days battling in Congress and dying there—each was a leader in life, but each has become in death a grander leader still.

Mr. Calhoun possessed an intellect of much originality and boldness, and, though wanting in the culture of a scholar, made himself felt in council and debate. To native powers unlike, but not inferior, Mr. Adams added the well-ripened fruits of long experience in foreign lands, and of studies more varied and complete than those of any public man in our history, beside an indomitable will, and that spirit of freedom which inspired his father when in the Continental Congress he so eloquently maintained the Declaration of Independence, making himself its "colossus" on that floor.

THE DIVIDING POINT ON THE SUBJECT OF SLAVERY.

Sitting together in the Cabinet of Mr. Monroe, they concurred in the prohibition of slavery in the Missouri territory as constitutional, and so advised the president.—But here the divergence probably began—though for a long time it was not made manifest. The diary of Mr. Adams shows that at that early day, when slavery had been little discussed, he saw its enormity with instinctive quickness, and described it with corresponding force. The record is less full with regard to Mr. Calhoun; but when in later life they appeared, one in the senate and the other in the house of representatives, each openly assumed the position by which he will be known in history—one as the leader in all the pretensions of slavery and of slave-masters, and the other as the champion of freedom.

Mr. Calhoun regarded slavery as a permanent institution; Mr. Adams regarded it as transitory. Mr. Calhoun vaunted it as a form of civilization; Mr. Adams scorned it as an unquestionable barbarism. Mr. Calhoun did not hesitate to call it the most stable basis for free government; Mr. Adams vehemently denounced it as a curse, full of weakness and mockery, and doubly offensive in a boasted republic. Mr. Calhoun, not content with thus exalting slavery, proceeded to denounce the early opinions of Washington and Jefferson as "folly and delusion," to assail the self-evident truths of the Declaration of Independence as "absurd," and then to proclaim that human beings are properly under the constitution, and as such, may be transported into the territories and there held in slavery; while Mr. Adams added to the glory of his long and diversified career, by persistent efforts, which are better for his fame than having been president—upholding the great rights of petition and speech; vindicating the self-evident truths of the Declaration of Independence; exposing the hateful character of slavery; insisting upon its prohibition in the territories; denying the asserted property in man; and especially and often exhibiting the unjust power in the national government usurped by what he called "the little cluster of slave-masters, whose yoke was to him intolerable."

Such, most briefly told, were the antagonist opinions of these two chiefs. Never was a great conflict destined to involve a great country more distinctly foreshadowed. All that the republican party now opposes may be found in John C. Calhoun. All that the republican party now maintains may be found in John Quincy Adams. Choose ye, fellow-citizens, between the two. The rule of "principle not men" is hardly applicable to a man whose life now bears the sacred seal of death, and whose name is the synonym of principle; yet I do not hesitate to say that our cause is best appreciated in its precise objects and aims. Proud as we may be to tread where John Quincy Adams leads the way, there is a guide of more commanding authority found in the eternal laws of right, and the concurring mandates of the constitution itself, when properly interpreted, which teaches the duties of a good citizen. Such is the guide of the republican party, which, I say fearlessly, where most known, will be most trusted, and which, when understood in its origin, will be seen to be no accidental or fugitive organization, merely for an election, but an irresistible necessity, which in the nature of things, must be as permanent as the pretensions, moral and political, which it seeks to constrain and counteract.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY AND ITS USES.

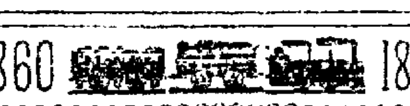

Let us dwell, then, on the republican party, its origin, its necessity, and its permanence.

All must admit that if no republican party existed now—even if that halcyon day so often promised by cajoling politicians had come, when the slavery question was settled—still there would be a political necessity for a great party of opposition to act as a check on the administration. A kindred necessity was once expressed by an eminent British statesman, who gave as a toast, "A strong administration and a strong opposition." Parties are unknown in despotic countries. They belong to the machinery of free governments. Through parties, public opinion is concentrated and directed. Through parties principles are maintained above men. And through parties, men in power are held to a just responsibility. But if ever there was occasion for such a party, it is now, when the corruptions of the administration have been dragged to light by recent committees of congress. On this ground alone, good men might be summoned to rescue the government of our country.

CORRUPTIONS OF THE DEMOCRACY.

It is now an attested fact that Mr. Buchanan became president through corruption. Money familiarly known as a "corruption fund," first distilled in small drippings from clerks and petty officials, was swollen by the larger contributions of merchants and contractors, and with this accumulation votes were purchased in Philadelphia, enough to turn the election in that Important Discoveries and New Arrangements!

THE subscriber has discovered upon his premises a splendid

which promises to surpass anything yet found in the state, as well as add to the many already developed resources of our city,

A Beautiful, Cheap and Durable Building Material,

He has made arrangements to work this, together with the justly celebrated

Monterey Lime Stone Quarry,

on a scale equal to the demands of our enterprising citizens, and in order to accommodate his numerous customers, he has made arrangements to keep constantly on hand a large supply of

ATHENS MARBLE

(or Chicago stone.) He is now fitting up extensive saw and scouring mills, and other machinery necessary for working the same, at a great reduction from former prices.

He also wishes to call attention to the fact that sound cutting or dimension stone can only be found at great distance from the surface, and that the Monterey Quarry is the only one in this county that has been worked far enough to reach those formations that are imperishable when exposed to the action of air and frost.

He is also supplying his Quarry with Derricks to facilitate the handling and loading large stone, and is fitting up expensive wagons, carts and trucks, rigged with the most approved appliances for moving and delivering dimension stone of any size, from two to thirty feet square, and from six to twenty inches thick, or any required length up to one hundred feet, to any part of the city or on board of the cars.

He is prepared to furnish

Cut Stone

of every description,

PLAIN, MOULDED, CARVED OR POLISHED FLAGGING

of any required dimension,

Curbing, Paving, Ruble and Coursing

stone of the best quality in the state, all of which will be delivered at his Quarries or any part of the city, to suit purchasers.

In conclusion he begs to assure the public that from the superior quality of his materials, and facilities for furnishing, he can and will make it to their interests to patronize the Monterey Quarries.

All Orders from the city or country will be promptly attended to.

Insurance against loss or damage by fire, on Dwellings, Furniture, Stores, Warehouses, Merchandise, Mills, Manufactories, and most other kinds of property, can be effected in this company upon as favorable terms as the nature of the risks and security of policy-holders will admit.

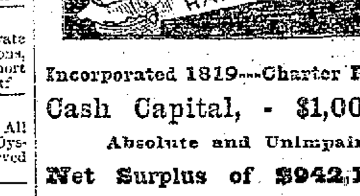

The above is the oldest company doing business in this state, and with peculiar propriety has been denominated "The Old Hartford." As an indemnity to the insured, it refers to a solid million of assets well invested; and if anything were needed to commend it to the public for liberal patronage, we might offer its history of success in business and honorable dealing with its patrons, for over half a century, as amply sufficient for the purpose.

THE above are First Class, justly popular, and prompt paying companies. They invite investigation into their condition and solicit business entirely upon their real merits. In point of solvency and reliability and honorable dealing, they have but few equals, and no superiors. They are founded upon the very best securities in the world—first class bonds and mortgages upon property in New York and Brooklyn—securities that have not, for the past ten years, depreciated below par, and are every way more reliable and permanent than railroad, bank, and other stocks, which are subject to the fluctuations of the market, and liable, in times of panic, as the experience of the past teaches, to become almost, if not entirely, valueless. And while there are Companies entering the field of competition, well calculated to mislead by publishing partial and one-sided statements of their condition, and without a cash surplus on hand sufficient to reinsure their outstanding risks, the above named companies always have and keep over and above their capital twice the amount, and in most instances four times, needed for the reinsurance of all their risks. With such a foundation, and with such a condition, they claim the right to look with confidence to the public for liberal patronage.

Policies issued without delay, and farms risks for a series of years taken at less rates than can be done by Mutual Companies, and a certainty given instead of an uncertainty. All losses promptly adjusted and paid.

New York Life Insurance Company,

RECOMMENDATIONS FROM PRESIDENTS OF COLLEGES.

Within the last few weeks the publishers have received flattering testimonials of the merits of this edition, from nearly THIRTY Presidents of as many of the leading Colleges of the United States. Among them are from Presidents Frelinghuysen of Rutgers, Walker of Harvard, Hopkins of Williams, Stearns of Amherst, Cummings of Middletown, Nott of Union, Wayland of Providence, Jackson of Hobart, Woods of Brunswick, Lord of Dartmouth, Pease of Burlington, Ballou of Tufts, Gale of Galesville, Clampi of Holy Cross, Murphy of Abington, Labaree of Middlebury, Andrews of Marietta, Fisher of Hamilton, Reed of Shurtliff, Sturtevant of Illinois, Reynolds of Illinois, Collins of Wilkinson, Anderson of Rochester, Wallace of Monmouth, Curtis of Knox &c. In them are expressions like the following:—

"An honor to American science, taste and criticism." "An enduring value and authority." "Never found any work which so uniformly satisfied my inquiries." "Has ever since been my constant companion in my practice at the bar, and for the last five years upon the bench — I have ever found it a safe counsellor, and an indispensable help in the preparation and decision of cases." "For the sake of my country and the English language, I rejoice in the wonderful standard excellence, as well as celebrity, your Dictionary has attained. It is a work for the present, and for all coming time." "Stands unquestionably preeminent." "There seems every prospect that it will be the standard book for this country, at least, if not for England. I am content it should be so." "This truly great and national work." "A complete apparatus for all purposes of reading and understanding English and American literature. It is difficult to conceive of anything that could be added to fit it for these ends." "A vast treasury of knowledge, the whole of which is needed by every one who uses the English language, either as a writer, a speaker, or a reader." "ought to be a part of the furniture of every American house." "We long ago accepted Webster as the standard in our college, and the experience of every term strengthens our conviction of the wisdom of our choice." "So long as you continue to incorporate all the improvements which are developed in the science of lexicography," &c., &c. 36w2m.

THESE popular BITTERS possess all the nourishing and invigorating properties of PURE OLD BOURBON WHISKEY, and are considered the most efficacious TONIC and STIMULANT, as well as the most agreeable STOMACHIC ever offered to the public. As a Tonic for Old People, delicate Ladies, convalescent invalids, and all weakly people, they cannot be surpassed; in all cases of Weakness or Debility, they will give immediate relief, and impart a strong healthy tone to the system. A trial will establish their merits over all other Tonics now in use. For LUNG COMPLAINTS, BRONCHITIS, DYSPEPSIA, NERVOUS DISEASES AND LIVER COMPLAINTS, they are an invaluable Remedy; and are a certain preventative of CHILLS and FEVERS.

SPEECH OF HON. CHAS. SUMNER.

The Republican Party---Its Origin, its Necessity and its Permanence.

Delivered July 11, in Cooper Institute, N. Y.

From the New York Times, 12th.

FELLOW CITIZENS OF NEW YORK:—Of all men in our history, there are two whose influence at this moment is most peculiar. Though dead, they yet live, speak and act in the conflict of principles which divides the country—standing face to face like two well-matched champions. When I add that one was from South Carolina and the other from Massachusetts, you will see at once that I mean John C. Calhoun and John Quincy Adams.

Statesmen both of long career, of marked ability, and of unblemished integrity—acting together at first—sitting in the same cabinet—one to become Vice President and the other President, then for the remainder of their days battling in Congress and dying there—each was a leader in life, but each has become in death a grander leader still.

Mr. Calhoun possessed an intellect of much originality and boldness, and, though wanting in the culture of a scholar, made himself felt in council and debate. To native powers unlike, but not inferior, Mr. Adams added the well-ripened fruits of long experience in foreign lands, and of studies more varied and complete than those of any public man in our history, beside an indomitable will, and that spirit of freedom which inspired his father when in the Continental Congress he so eloquently maintained the Declaration of Independence, making himself its "colossus" on that floor.

THE DIVIDING POINT ON THE SUBJECT OF SLAVERY.

Sitting together in the Cabinet of Mr. Monroe, they concurred in the prohibition of slavery in the Missouri territory as constitutional, and so advised the president.—But here the divergence probably began—though for a long time it was not made manifest. The diary of Mr. Adams shows that at that early day, when slavery had been little discussed, he saw its enormity with instinctive quickness, and described it with corresponding force. The record is less full with regard to Mr. Calhoun; but when in later life they appeared, one in the senate and the other in the house of representatives, each openly assumed the position by which he will be known in history—one as the leader in all the pretensions of slavery and of slave-masters, and the other as the champion of freedom.

Mr. Calhoun regarded slavery as a permanent institution; Mr. Adams regarded it as transitory. Mr. Calhoun vaunted it as a form of civilization; Mr. Adams scorned it as an unquestionable barbarism. Mr. Calhoun did not hesitate to call it the most stable basis for free government; Mr. Adams vehemently denounced it as a curse, full of weakness and mockery, and doubly offensive in a boasted republic. Mr. Calhoun, not content with thus exalting slavery, proceeded to denounce the early opinions of Washington and Jefferson as "folly and delusion," to assail the self-evident truths of the Declaration of Independence as "absurd," and then to proclaim that human beings are properly under the constitution, and as such, may be transported into the territories and there held in slavery; while Mr. Adams added to the glory of his long and diversified career, by persistent efforts, which are better for his fame than having been president—upholding the great rights of petition and speech; vindicating the self-evident truths of the Declaration of Independence; exposing the hateful character of slavery; insisting upon its prohibition in the territories; denying the asserted property in man; and especially and often exhibiting the unjust power in the national government usurped by what he called "the little cluster of slave-masters, whose yoke was to him intolerable."

Such, most briefly told, were the antagonist opinions of these two chiefs. Never was a great conflict destined to involve a great country more distinctly foreshadowed. All that the republican party now opposes may be found in John C. Calhoun. All that the republican party now maintains may be found in John Quincy Adams. Choose ye, fellow-citizens, between the two. The rule of "principle not men" is hardly applicable to a man whose life now bears the sacred seal of death, and whose name is the synonym of principle; yet I do not hesitate to say that our cause is best appreciated in its precise objects and aims. Proud as we may be to tread where John Quincy Adams leads the way, there is a guide of more commanding authority found in the eternal laws of right, and the concurring mandates of the constitution itself, when properly interpreted, which teaches the duties of a good citizen. Such is the guide of the republican party, which, I say fearlessly, where most known, will be most trusted, and which, when understood in its origin, will be seen to be no accidental or fugitive organization, merely for an election, but an irresistible necessity, which in the nature of things, must be as permanent as the pretensions, moral and political, which it seeks to constrain and counteract.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY AND ITS USES.

Let us dwell, then, on the republican party, its origin, its necessity, and its permanence.

All must admit that if no republican party existed now—even if that halcyon day so often promised by cajoling politicians had come, when the slavery question was settled—still there would be a political necessity for a great party of opposition to act as a check on the administration. A kindred necessity was once expressed by an eminent British statesman, who gave as a toast, "A strong administration and a strong opposition." Parties are unknown in despotic countries. They belong to the machinery of free governments. Through parties, public opinion is concentrated and directed. Through parties principles are maintained above men. And through parties, men in power are held to a just responsibility. But if ever there was occasion for such a party, it is now, when the corruptions of the administration have been dragged to light by recent committees of congress. On this ground alone, good men might be summoned to rescue the government of our country.

CORRUPTIONS OF THE DEMOCRACY.

It is now an attested fact that Mr. Buchanan became president through corruption. Money familiarly known as a "corruption fund," first distilled in small drippings from clerks and petty officials, was swollen by the larger contributions of merchants and contractors, and with this accumulation votes were purchased in Philadelphia, enough to turn the election in that

on a scale equal to the demands of our enterprising citizens, and in order to accommodate his numerous customers, he has made arrangements to keep constantly on hand a large supply of

He also wishes to call attention to the fact that sound cutting or dimension stone can only be found at great distances from the surface, and that the Monterey Quarry is the only one in this county that has been worked far enough to reach those formations that are imperishable when exposed to the action of air and frost.

He is also supplying his Quarry with Derricks to facilitate the handling and loading large stone, and is fitting up expensive wagons, carts and trucks, rigged with the most approved appliances for moving and delivering dimension stone of any size, from two to thirty feet square, and from six to twenty inches thick, or any required length up to one hundred feet, to any part of the city or on board of the cars.

The above is the oldest company doing business in this state, and with peculiar propriety has been denominated "The Old Hartford." As an indemnity to the insured, it refers to a solid million of assets well invested; and if anything were needed to commend it to the public for liberal patronage, we might offer its history of success in business and honorable dealing with its patrons, for over half a century, as amply sufficient for the purpose.

THE above are First Class, justly popular, and prompt paying companies. They invite investigation into their condition and solicit business entirely upon their real merits. In point of solvency and reliability and honorable dealing, they have but few equals, and no superiors. They are founded upon the very best securities in the world—first class bonds and mortgages upon property in New York and Brooklyn—securities that have not, for the past ten years, depreciated below par, and are every way more reliable and permanent than railroad, bank, and other stocks, which are subject to the fluctuations of the market, and liable, in times of panic, as the experience of the past teaches, to become almost, if not entirely, valueless. And while there are Companies entering the field of competition, well calculated to mislead by publishing partial and one-sided statements of their condition, and without a cash surplus on hand sufficient to reinsure their outstanding risks, the above named companies always have and keep over and above their capital twice the amount, and in most instances four times, needed for the reinsurance of all their risks. With such a foundation, and with such a condition, they claim the right to look with confidence to the public for liberal patronage.

Policies issued without delay, and farms risks for a series of years taken at less rates than can be done by Mutual Companies, and a certainty given instead of an uncertainty. All losses promptly adjusted and paid.

SPEECH OF HON. CHAS. SUMNER.

The Republican Party---Its Origin, its Necessity and its Permanence.

Delivered July 11, in Cooper Institute, N. Y.

From the New York Times, 12th.

FELLOW CITIZENS OF NEW YORK:—Of all men in our history, there are two whose influence at this moment is most peculiar. Though dead, they yet live, speak and act in the conflict of principles which divides the country—standing face to face like two well-matched champions. When I add that one was from South Carolina and the other from Massachusetts, you will see at once that I mean John C. Calhoun and John Quincy Adams.

Statesmen both of long career, of marked ability, and of unblemished integrity—acting together at first—sitting in the same cabinet—one to become Vice President and the other President, then for the remainder of their days battling in Congress and dying there—each was a leader in life, but each has become in death a grander leader still.

Mr. Calhoun possessed an intellect of much originality and boldness, and, though wanting in the culture of a scholar, made himself felt in council and debate. To native powers unlike, but not inferior, Mr. Adams added the well-ripened fruits of long experience in foreign lands, and of studies more varied and complete than those of any public man in our history, beside an indomitable will, and that spirit of freedom which inspired his father when in the Continental Congress he so eloquently maintained the Declaration of Independence, making himself its "colossus" on that floor.

THE DIVIDING POINT ON THE SUBJECT OF SLAVERY.

Sitting together in the Cabinet of Mr. Monroe, they concurred in the prohibition of slavery in the Missouri territory as constitutional, and so advised the president.—But here the divergence probably began—though for a long time it was not made manifest. The diary of Mr. Adams shows that at that early day, when slavery had been little discussed, he saw its enormity with instinctive quickness, and described it with corresponding force. The record is less full with regard to Mr. Calhoun; but when in later life they appeared, one in the senate and the other in the house of representatives, each openly assumed the position by which he will be known in history—one as the leader in all the pretensions of slavery and of slave-masters, and the other as the champion of freedom.

Mr. Calhoun regarded slavery as a permanent institution; Mr. Adams regarded it as transitory. Mr. Calhoun vaunted it as a form of civilization; Mr. Adams scorned it as an unquestionable barbarism. Mr. Calhoun did not hesitate to call it the most stable basis for free government; Mr. Adams vehemently denounced it as a curse, full of weakness and mockery, and doubly offensive in a boasted republic. Mr. Calhoun, not content with thus exalting slavery, proceeded to denounce the early opinions of Washington and Jefferson as "folly and delusion," to assail the self-evident truths of the Declaration of Independence as "absurd," and then to proclaim that human beings are properly under the constitution, and as such, may be transported into the territories and there held in slavery; while Mr. Adams added to the glory of his long and diversified career, by persistent efforts, which are better for his fame than having been president—upholding the great rights of petition and speech; vindicating the self-evident truths of the Declaration of Independence; exposing the hateful character of slavery; insisting upon its prohibition in the territories; denying the asserted property in man; and especially and often exhibiting the unjust power in the national government usurped by what he called "the little cluster of slave-masters, whose yoke was to him intolerable."

Such, most briefly told, were the antagonist opinions of these two chiefs. Never was a great conflict destined to involve a great country more distinctly foreshadowed. All that the republican party now opposes may be found in John C. Calhoun. All that the republican party now maintains may be found in John Quincy Adams. Choose ye, fellow-citizens, between the two. The rule of "principle not men" is hardly applicable to a man whose life now bears the sacred seal of death, and whose name is the synonym of principle; yet I do not hesitate to say that our cause is best appreciated in its precise objects and aims. Proud as we may be to tread where John Quincy Adams leads the way, there is a guide of more command ing authority found in the eternal laws of right, and the concurring mandates of the constitution itself, when properly interpreted, which teaches the duties of a good citizen. Such is the guide of the republican party, which, I say fearlessly, where most known, will be most trusted, and which, when understood in its origin, will be seen to be no accidental or fugitive organization, merely for an election, but an irresistible necessity, which in the nature of things, must be as permanent as the pretensions, moral and political, which it seeks to constrain and counteract.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY AND ITS USES.

Let us dwell, then, on the republican party, its origin, its necessity, and its permanence.

All must admit that if no republican party existed now—even if that halcyon day so often promised by cajoling politicians had come, when the slavery question was settled—still there would be a political necessity for a great party of opposition to act as a check on the administration. A kindred necessity was once expressed by an eminent British statesman, who gave as a toast, "A strong administration and a strong opposition." Parties are unknown in despotic countries. They belong to the machinery of free governments. Through parties, public opinion is concentrated and directed. Through parties principles are maintained above men. And through parties, men in power are held to a just responsibility. But if ever there was occasion for such a party, it is now, when the corruptions of the administration have been dragged to light by recent committees of congress. On this ground alone, good men might be summoned to rescue the government of our country.

CORRUPTIONS OF THE DEMOCRACY.

It is now an attested fact that Mr. Buchanan became president through corruption. Money familiarly known as a "corruption fund," first distilled in small drippings from clerks and petty officials, was swollen by the larger contributions of merchants and contractors, and with this accumulation votes were purchased in Philadelphia, enough to turn the election in that

He also wishes to call attention to the fact that sound cutting or dimension stone can only be found at great distances from the surface, and that the Monterey Quarry is the only one in this county that has been worked far enough to reach those formations that are imperishable when exposed to the action of air and frost.

He is also supplying his Quarry with Derricks to facilitate the handling and loading large stone, and is fitting up expensive wagons, carts and trucks, rigged with the most approved appliances for moving and delivering dimension stone of any size, from two to thirty feet square, and from six to twenty inches thick, or any required length up to one hundred feet, to any part of the city on board of the cars.

Mr. Sumner's Speech.

We publish, to-day, a part of the speech of Hon. Charles Sumner, delivered at Cooper's Institute, in New York, on the 11th inst. We shall publish the conclusion to-morrow. It is a great speech, and displays much care in its preparation. The question which he investigates so boldly is that of slavery, and he does it with a master's hand. It is well at this time, while the presidential conflict is going on around us, to appreciate what the contest is about, and why the republican party is banded together to resist the spread of the giant wrong of slavery. An attentive perusal of Mr. Sumner's speech will, we think, convince a large majority of our readers of the duty and necessity of a continued and unflinching opposition to the spread of human bondage in this nation. Nothing else, we firmly believe, will avert the downfall of the republic.

Bankers' Meeting.—We have seen in several of our exchanges the proceedings of the bankers' meeting held in this city last week, with a request for the papers of the state to copy them. We would have complied with this request very cheerfully if they had been furnished us at the same time they were given to other daily papers out of the city, and would now do so, under an explanation since made to us as to the cause of the omission to furnish them on the adjournment of the meeting, if they had not passed from our reach among the exchanges we have disposed of.

This meeting was not a private one, as we supposed, and the published proceedings relate entirely to the reception of Illinois currency on deposite at par. If we remembered rightly, 27 banks were represented, and the resolutions adopted, after reciting the fact that some of the Milwaukee banks had violated an agreement to receive Illinois currency only at one-half per cent discount, re-affirm a determination to adhere to the original decision, and characterise the action of the Milwaukee banks as hostile to the interests of the country banks. This decision was not, we understand, arrived at unanimously, some of the delegates in the meeting regarding the discrimination against Illinois currency as unjust and unwise.

We do not assume to be much versed in banking matters, or the intricate questions of currency, but with the light we have on this subject we coincide with the minority of the meeting. The discrimination against the currency of an adjoining state with which our own business is intimately connected, may be beneficial to the interests of our state banks, especially if the condemned currency is received at a discount and paid out or exchanged at par; but this discrimination seems hostile to the interests of business men who deal in that currency, and if persisted in will result in a refusal to deposite the proscribed currency and its transmission by express to Chicago, where it will realise its face or purchase eastern exchange at current rates, without the loss of a half cent on each dollar.

We think the true policy of our own city banks would be to follow the example of the Milwaukee banks, particularly as the far greater portion of our lake shore business is with Chicago, where the Illinois currency is in as good repute as Wisconsin currency in this state. It is not unlikely that our Wisconsin banks generally will be driven to disregard the restriction a portion of them desire to impose, and that they will find their own interests to be identical with those of their depositors and customers.

The "Coming Man."—We have the Louisville Journal's authority for saying that Gen. Jo Lane, whom the opponents of Mr. Lincoln are trying to elevate to the presidency, dated one of his letters from Mexico, some years ago, Vera Croose; and that while spelling his own name with a capital letter, he spells the name of the Almighty with a small g.

They do say that "Jo" is the most illiterate and ignorant "specimen" that has ever had a seat in the United States Senate. About all he knows is to fawn around the southern fire-eaters and do their dirty work. If half that's said of him is true, he is not only a "dough face," but also a "dough-head."

The wool clip of Ohio will amount to nine millions of pounds, and distribute among the farmers about four millions of dollars.

SPEECH OF HON. CHAS. SUMNER.

[Concluded from the outside.]

great metropolis, and in the chain of cause and effect, to assure the triumph of the democratic candidate. I speak now only what has been proved. Fraudulent naturalization papers in blank, by which this was perpetrated, have been produced before a committee of congress. It was natural that an administration thus corrupt in origin should continue to exercise power thro' the same corruption through which power was gained; but nothing else than that insensibility to acts of shame, which is bred by familiarity, can explain how all this should be done with such absolute indecency of exposure—wearing scarcely so much as a fig leaf.

A letter from a local politician, addressed to the president himself, urging without disguise the giving of a large contract for machinery to a particular house in Philadelphia, employing four hundred and fifty mechanics, with a view to the approaching election, was enclosed to the secretary of navy, with this indorsement in a well-known handwriting: "Sept. 15, 1858. The enclosed letter from Col. Patterson, of Philadelphia, is submitted to the attention of the secretary of navy. J. B." Thus did the president of the United States, in formal written words, now of record in the history of the country, recommend the employment of the public money, set apart for the public service, to influence an election. Here was corruption as positive as when his supporters purchased votes in the streets.—From one, learn all; and from such a characteristic instance, learn the character of the administration. But there are other well known instances, and the testimony before the congressional committees discloses the president on Sundays in secret conclave with one of his corrupt agents, piously occupied in discussing the chances of an election, and how its expenses were to be met, while at the same time, like another Joseph Surface, he was uttering in public fine sentiments of political morality, and lamenting the prevalence of the very indecencies in which he was engaged.

THE KANSAS FRAUDS.

It was natural that a president, who with professions of purity on the lips, made himself the pander of such vulgar corruption, should stick at nothing needed to carry his purposes. I shall not dwell on the Lecompton constitution, but it belongs to this chapter. You all know its wickedness. Concocted originally at Washington, with the single purpose of fastening slavery upon the people of Kansas, it was with execrable contrivance so arranged as to prevent the people, when about to become a state, from voting on that question. Next, sanctioned by a convention of usurpers, who in no respect represented the people of Kansas; then fraudulently submitted to the people for their votes, it was fraudulently adopted by stuffing ballot boxes on a scale never before known—thus at the Delaware crossing where there were but 43 legal voters, 400 were returned; at Oxford where there were but 42 legal voters, 1,000 were returned; and at Shawnee where there were but 40 legal voters, 1,200 were returned.—And yet this constitution, disowned by the very governor who had gone to Kansas as the agent of the president, rotten with corruption, gaping with fraud, and steaming with iniquity, was at once recognized by the president, urged upon congress in his annual message, and pressed for adoption by all the appliances of unprincipled power. If the words of Jugartha turning his back upon Rome cannot be repeated, that all had a price, it was not from any forbearance in the president. A single editor was offered the printing of the post office blanks (worth at least $80,000,) upon the condition that he should, by an editorial no larger than a man's hand, promise subserviency to the administration. Bribes of office were added to the bribes of money.—As the votes of electors had already been purchased to make Mr. Buchanan president, the votes of representatives were now solicited to carry out his scheme of corruption, and the halls of congress were turned into a political market house, where men were bought by the head. Is not all this enough to arouse the indignation of the people?

It is true that the President, whose power began in corruption, and who is the responsible author of the corruption by which his administration has been debased, is no longer a candidate for office. Already judgment has begun. His own political party has discarded him. The first avenging blow has been struck. Incorruptible history will do the rest. The tablets conspicuously erected in Genoa to expose the crimes of Doges, branding one as Fur Magnus and the other as Maximus Lathronum, will not be needed here. The exposed corruptor, the tyrant enslaver, and the robber of human freedom, cannot be forgotten. Unhappy President! After a long career of public service, not only tossed aside, but tossed over to perpetual memory as an example to be shunned. Better for him the oblivion of common life than the bad fame which he has won!

THE ISSUES OF THE PRESENT CAMPAIGN.

But though not himself a candidate for office, his peculiar supporters, animated by his spirit, linked with him in all his misrule, are embodied as a party, and ask your votes. Simply to resist this combination, and to save the republic from its degrading influence, would justify the formation of the republican party; and I doubt not that there are many who will be content to unite with us on this ground alone, anxious to put the national government once again in pure hands. To all such, welcome!

While this consummation necessarily enters into the present purposes of the republican party, while we naturally begin by insisting upon purity in the government, and make this one of our urgent demands, it is obvious that the quickening impulse of party is to be found in other purposes which cannot pass away in a single election. The republican party seeks to overthrow the slave oligarchy in the national government, and especially at this moment to stay its aggressions in the territories, which through a corrupt interpretation of the constitution, it threatens to barbarize with slavery. But all who seek purity in the national government must unite in this purpose, for only by the overthrow of this corrupt oligarchy, which, beginning in the denial of all human rights, necessarily shows itself in barbarism and corruption of all kinds, can a better order of things prevail. It is out of slavery that all our griefs proceed; nor can the corruptions of the present administration be fully comprehended without considering the nature of this evil and its chronic influence over our government, reaching everywhere by subtle agencies or more subtle far-reaching example, but still in itself the original and all-sufficient activity. As well attempt to explain the Gulf Stream without the Gulf of Mexico, or the origin of evil without the human heart, as attempt to explain the present degraded character of our national government without slavery. As well attempt to enact the play of "Othello" without the Moor. And permit me to say that our warfare with these corruptions will be feeble unless we attack them in their origin.

The subject is so vast that I can undertake to expose it by glimpses only.

PROGRESS OF THE SLAVERY AGITATION.

At the beginning of our history, slavery was universally admitted to be an evil. Nobody then so hardy as to vindicate it. In the convention which framed the constitution, it was branded as a "nefarious institution," or more mildly called simply "wrong," and these generous voices came from the south as well as from the north. Out of the convention there was a similar accord. I shall not quote the words of Washington, Jefferson, or Franklin, or Jay, for they are familiar to all. But as they spoke others spoke, and I might occupy this whole evening, simply in reciting this testimony.—Nor were these declarations confined to men in public life. The colleges all, by special action, arrayed themselves against slavery, especially the University of William and Mary, in Virginia, which conferred upon Granville Sharpe, the acknowledged chief of British abolitionists, the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. The literature of the land, such as it was, agreed with the colleges. The church, too, added its powerful voice; and here, amid the diversities of religious faith, we hail that unity of spirit which animated all. Quakers, Methodists, Presbyterians, and Congregationalists seem almost to have vied with each other in this pious testimony.

The constitution was adopted, but the word "slave" was not allowed to pollute its text; and this was in declared deference to the prevailing opinion, which regarded slavery as temporary, destined soon to pass away. All looked forward to this glad day, which seemed to be almost at hand. In harmony with this existing expectation, slavery was prohibited in all the existing territories of the Union, so that when Washington, as first President of the United States, at his inauguration here in New York, took his first oath to support the constitution, the flag of the republic, nowhere in the land within the jurisdiction of congress, covered a single slave. Little then did the fathers dream that the evil which they regarded with shame, and which they exerted themselves to prohibit, would elevate its obscene crest, as it now does, and flaunt its pretensions before the world.—Little did they dream that the constitution, from which they had carefully excluded the very word, would, in defiance of reason and common sense, be held to protect the thing, so exceptionally that it could not be reached by congressional prohibition, even within congressional jurisdiction. Little did they dream that the text, which they left so pure and healthful, would, through corrupt interpretation, be swollen into such a hideous Elephantiasis.

Two circumstances, civilizing in themselves, have exercised an unexpected influence for slavery; first, the abolition of the slave trade, which, by taking away the supply, has increased the value of slaves; and secondly, the increased cultivation of cotton stimulated by the invention of new machinery. The last has been of especial influence. Indeed, it is hardly too much to say, that out of this slender cotton fibre have been formed the manacles of the slave. Thus, through sinister influences and the wickedness of men, is good made the minister of wrong. Next after Christopher Columbus, who, by his sublime enterprise, opened the pathway to the new world, Eli Whitney, who discovered the cotton gin, has been indirectly and unconsciously a chief agent in the bondage of the African race on the North American continent; and surely a proper gratitude for the advantages which we enjoy in such large store from these two discoveries, must prompt us to increased activity for the welfare of those who, alas! have been such losers where we have been such gainers.

This change of opinion, so disastrous in its results, was gradual. Though easily detected, in its successive stages, by the careful inquirer, it did not become manifest to the whole country till 1820, when it burst forth in the Missouri question. Then, for the first time, slavery openly showed itself violent, insolent, beligerent. Freedom was checked, but saved something by a compromise—called, at the moment of its adoption, by Charles Pinckney of South Carolina, "a triumph of the south," where, in consideration of the admission of Missouri as a slave state—thus securing an additional preponderance to the slave power—it was stipulated that slavery should be prohibited in certain outlying territory, at the time trodden only by savages. Then came a lull, during which the change was still at work, until, cotemporaneous with the abolition of slavery in the British West Indies, the discussion was lighted anew. Meanwhile slaves had augmented in price, and slave-masters had become more decided in opinion. At first, in timid deference to the world, they ventured on no defence of slavery in the abstract; but at last, bolder grown under the lead of Mr. Calhoun, they threw aside all reserve, openly assailed the opinions of the fathers, audaciously denied the self-evident truths of the declaration of independence, and by formal resolution asserted the new dogma of slavery in the territories. This was in 1847. A letter from Mr. Calhoun of that day, addressed to a member of the Alabama legislature, shows that there was an element of policy in the exaggeration. His desire was "to force the slavery issue" on the north, believing that delay was dangerous, as the slave-masters were relatively stronger, both morally and politically, than they would ever be again.

At last the end has come. Slavery is openly pronounced at one time "the black-marble key-stone of our national arch;" at another time "the corner-stone of our republican edifice;" then it is vaunted as "the highest type of civilization;" then as "a blessing to the master as well as to the slave;" and then again "as ennobling to the master if not to the slave." It is only the first step which costs, and therefore the authors of these opinions, so shocking to the moral sense, do not hesitate at other opinions equally shocking to the reason, which pretend to find impossible sanctions for slavery in the constitution. Listening to these extravagances, who would exclaim with Ben Johnson, in the play,

Grave father, he's possest again I say,
Possest. Nay, if there be possession
And obsession, he hath both.

TRUE CHARACTER OF THE INSTITUTION.

And now, fellow citizens, what is slavery? This is no question merely of curiosity or philanthropy; for when the national government, which you and I at the north help to constitute, is degraded to be its instrument, and all the national territories are proclaimed open to its barbarism, and the constitution itself is perverted to sanction its pretensions, the whole subject logically and necessarily enters into our discussion. It cannot be avoided—it cannot be blinked out of sight. Nay, you must pass upon it by your votes at the coming election. Futile is the plea that we at the north have nothing to do with slavery. Granted that we have nothing to do with it in the states, we have much to do with all its irrational pretensions under the constitution, and just so long as those irrational pretensions are urged, slavery must be discussed. It must be laid bare in its enormity precisely as though it were proposed to plant it here in New York. Nor can such a wrong—foul in itself and fouler still in its pretensions—be dealt with tamely. Tameness is surrender; and charity, too, may be misapplied. Forgiving those who trespass against us, I know not if we are called to forgive those who trespass against others; to forgive those who trespass against a race; to forgive those who trespass against the republic; to forgive those who trespass against civilization; to forgive those who trespass against a whole race; to forgive those who trespass against the universal human family; finally, to forgive those who trespass against God. Such tresspassers now exist among us—possessing the organization of party—possessing the control of the national government—constituting at this moment a colossal power—and "what seems its head the likeness of a president has on."

Surely, if ever there was a moment when every faculty should be bent into the service, and all should be invigorated by an inspiring zeal falsely rejected by the heartless diplomatist, it is now, while the battle between Civilization and Barbarism is still undecided, and you are summoned to resist the last desperate shock. To this work I am not equal; but I do not shrink from the duties of my post. Alas! human language is gentle, and the human voice is weak. Words only are mine, when I ought to command thunderbolts. Voice only is mine when, like the ancient Athenian, I ought to carry the weapons of Zeus on the tongue.

What, then, I repeat, is slavery? The occasion forbids details; but enough must be presented to place this outrage in a true light—as something worse even than a constant state of war where the master is the constant aggressor. And here I put aside for the moment all the tales which reach us from the house of bondage; all the cumulative, crushing testimony, alike from slaves and from their masters; all the barbarous incidents which have helped to arouse a yet too feeble indignation; in short all the glimpses which have come to us from this mighty Blue Beard's chamber. All these I put aside, not because they are of little moment in exhibiting the true character of slavery, but because I desire to arraign slavery on grounds above all controversy, impeachment or suspicion, even from slave masters themselves. Not on triumphant story, adorned by the genius of women; not even on indisputable facts do I now accuse slavery; but on its character as revealed in its own simple definition of itself. Out of its own mouth do I condemn it.

THE ESSENTIAL ELEMENTS.

By the law of slavery, man created in the image of God, fearfully and wonderfully made, with sensibilities of pleasure and pain, with sentiments of love, with aspirations for improvement, with a sense of propriety, and with a soul like ourselves, is divested of his human character, and declared to be a mere chattel "to all intents and purposes whatsoever." I do not stop to give at length all its odious words; you are doubtless familiar with them. But in this simple definition is contained the whole incalculable wrong of slavery; for out of it, as from an inexhaustible fountain, are derived all the unrighteous prerogatives of the master. These are five in number, and I know not which is the most revolting.

First—There is the pretension that man can hold property in man, forgeting that by a law older than all human law, foremost stands the indefeasible right of every man to himself.

Secondly—The absolute nullification of the relation of husband and wife, so that all who are called slaves are delivered over to concubinage or prostitution, it may be with each other, or it may be with their masters; but with whomesoever it may be, it is the same, for with slaves marriage is impossible, as they are always "coupled" never married.

Thirdly—The absolute nullification of the relation of parent and child, for the infant legally belongs, not to the mother who bore it, but to the master who bought it.

Fourthly—The absolute denial of instruction; for the master may always at his own discretion prevent his victim from learning to read, and thus shut upon him those gates of knowledge which open such vistas on earth and in Heaven. And

Fifthly—The absolute robbery of the labor of another and of all its fruits; forgetful that by the same original law under which every man has a title to the fruits of his own labor, amounting in itself to a sacred property, which no person, however called, whether despot or master, can rightcously appropriate.

Such are the five essential elements of Slavery. Look at them, and you will confess that this institution stands forth as a hateful assemblage of unquestionable wrong under the sanction of existing law. Take away any one of these, and just to that extent slavery will cease to exist. Take away all and the slavery question will be settled. But this assemblage becomes more hateful still when its unmistakable single motive is detected, which is simply this—to compel labor without wages. Incredible as it may seem, it cannot be denied that the right of a man to himself—the right of a husband to his wife—the right of a parent to his child—the right of a man to instruction—the right of a man to the fruits of his own labor—all these supreme rights by the side of which other rights are petty, are trampled down, in order to organize that five headed selfishness, practically maintained by the lash, which, look at as you will, has for its single object COMPULSORY LABOR WITHOUT WAGES.

ALL SORTS OF PARAGRAPHS.

The Milwaukee Sentinel says that one of the experienced produce dealers, yesterday, estimated the grain crop of Wisconsin for the year 1860 to be equivalent to twenty millions of bushels of wheat! Should this prove not exaggerated and prices keep up to the present standard, this would represent a value of twenty millions of dollars. That would answer for one year.

The Madison Journal publishes a letter from Providence, Rhode Island, which says that about a half million of dollars of Wisconsin farm mortgages are held in that city and that the holders of them "are disposed to sympathise with the farmers and ready to settle with them on general terms."

The hay crop this year will be abundant in quantity and excellent in quality. The Madison Journal says that it was never better in that vicinity, and that new timothy can now be contracted for at six dollars a ton.

W. A. Hawkins, the old proprietor of the Lake House, Milwaukee, and once a member of assembly, was recently massacred by the Indians in the neighborhood of Pike's Peak.

☞ A Bell and Everett state convention has been held in Alabama which declares, in one of its resolutions, that it is the duty of congress to legislate for the protection of slavery. All parties must take ground for or against slavery. It is the great question, and no union or democratic party can avoid the responsibility of taking a position in relation to it.

☞ The republicans of Michigan have made the following nominations. They are all new men but Mr. Kellogg:

1st dist.—Bradley F. Granger of Washtenaw county.

2d dist.—Fernando C. Beaman of Lenawa county.

3d dist.—Francis W. Kellogg of Kent county.

4th dist.—Rowland E. Trowbridge of Oakland county.

Madame Kossuth, the sister of the Hungarian patriot, whose death we have mentioned, was buried from the Unitarian church in Brooklyn, Rev. Drs. Farley, Osgood and Bellows, taking part in the ceremonies.—She had placed on her arm a bracelet made of the iron chain by which her brother had been bound in an Austrian prison, and some of the native soil of Hungary was scattered by the hands of her children on the grave.

Mr. Sumner's Speech.

We publish, to-day, a part of the speech of Hon. Charles Sumner, delivered at Cooper's Institute, in New York, on the 11th inst. We shall publish the conclusion to-morrow. It is a great speech, and displays much care in its preparation. The question which he investigates so boldly is that of slavery, and he does it with a master's hand. It is well at this time, while the presidential conflict is going on around us, to appreciate what the contest is about, and why the republican party is banded together to resist the spread of the giant wrong of slavery. An attentive perusal of Mr. Sumner's speech will, we think, convince a large majority of our readers of the duty and necessity of a continued and unflinching opposition to the spread of human bondage in this nation. Nothing else, we firmly believe, will avert the downfall of the republic.

Bankers' Meeting.—We have seen in several of our exchanges the proceedings of the bankers' meeting held in this city last week, with a request for the papers of the state to copy them. We would have complied with this request very cheerfully if they had been furnished us at the same time they were given to other daily papers out of the city, and would now do so, under an explanation since made to us as to the cause of the omission to furnish them on the adjournment of the meeting, if they had not passed from our reach among the exchanges we have disposed of.

This meeting was not a private one, as we supposed, and the published proceedings relate entirely to the reception of Illinois currency on deposite at par. If we remembered rightly, 27 banks were represented, and the resolutions adopted, after reciting the fact that some of the Milwaukee banks had violated an agreement to receive Illinois currency only at one-half per cent discount, re-affirm a determination to adhere to the original decision, and characterise the action of the Milwaukee banks as hostile to the interests of the country banks. This decision was not, we understand, arrived at unanimously, some of the delegates in the meeting regarding the discrimination against Illinois currency as unjust and unwise.

We do not assume to be much versed in banking matters, or the intricate questions of currency, but with the light we have on this subject we coincide with the minority of the meeting. The discrimination against the currency of an adjoining state with which our own business is intimately connected, may be beneficial to the interests of our state banks, especially if the condemned currency is received at a discount and paid out or exchanged at par: but this discrimination seems hostile to the interests of business men who deal in that currency, and if persisted in will result in a refusal to deposite the proscribed currency and its transmission by express to Chicago, where it will realise its face or purchase eastern exchange at current rates, without the loss of a half cent on each dollar.

We think the true policy of our own city banks would be to follow the example of the Milwaukee banks, particularly as the far greater portion of our lake shore business is with Chicago, where the Illinois currency is in as good repute as Wisconsin currency in this state. It is not unlikely that our Wisconsin banks generally will be driven to disregard the restriction a portion of them desire to impose, and that they will find their own interests to be identical with those of their depositors and customers.

The "Coming Man."—We have the Louisville Journal's authority for saying that Gen. Jo Lane, whom the opponents of Mr. Lincoln are trying to elevate to the presidency, dated one of his letters from Mexico, some years ago, Vera Croose; and that while spelling his own name with a capital letter, he spells the name of the Almighty with a small g.

They do say that "Jo" is the most illiterate and ignorant "specimen" that has ever had a seat in the United States Senate. About all he knows is to fawn around the southern fire-eaters and do their dirty work. If half that's said of him is true, he is not only a "dough face," but also a "dough-head."

The wool clip of Ohio will amount to nine millions of pounds, and distribute among the farmers about four millions of dollars.

SPEECH OF HON. CHAS. SUMNER.

[Concluded from the outside.]

great metropolis, and in the chain of cause and effect, to assure the triumph of the democratic candidate. I speak now only what has been proved. Fraudulent naturalization papers in blank, by which this was perpetrated, have been produced before a committee of congress. It was natural that an administration thus corrupt in origin should continue to exercise power thro' the same corruption through which power was gained; but nothing else than that insensibility to acts of shame, which is bred by familiarity, can explain how all this should be done with such absolute indecency of exposure—wearing scarcely so much as a fig leaf.

A letter from a local politician, addressed to the president himself, urging without disguise the giving of a large contract for machinery to a particular house in Philadelphia, employing four hundred and fifty mechanics, with a view to the approaching election, was enclosed to the secretary of navy, with this indorsement in a well-known handwriting: "Sept. 15, 1858. The enclosed letter from Col. Patterson, of Philadelphia, is submitted to the attention of the secretary of navy. J. B." Thus did the president of the United States, in formal written words, now of record in the history of the country, recommend the employment of the public money, set apart for the public service, to influence an election. Here was corruption as positive as when his supporters purchased votes in the streets.—From one, learn all; and from such a characteristic instance, learn the character of the administration. But there are other well known instances, and the testimony before the congressional committees discloses the president on Sundays in secret conclave with one of his corrupt agents, piously occupied in discussing the chances of an election, and how its expenses were to be met, while at the same time, like another Joseph Surface, he was uttering in public fine sentiments of political morality, and lamenting the prevalence of the very indecencies in which he was engaged.

THE KANSAS FRAUDS.

It was natural that a president, who with professions of purity on the lips, made himself the pander of such vulgar corruption, should stick at nothing needed to carry his purposes. I shall not dwell on the Lecompton constitution, but it belongs to this chapter. You all know its wickedness. Concocted originally at Washington, with the single purpose of fastening slavery upon the people of Kansas, it was with execrable contrivance so arranged as to prevent the people, when about to become a state, from voting on that question. Next, sanctioned by a convention of usurpers, who in no respect represented the people of Kansas; then fraudulently submitted to the people for their votes, it was fraudulently adopted by stuffing ballot boxes on a scale never before known—thus at the Delaware crossing where there were but 43 legal voters, 400 were returned; at Oxford where there were but 42 legal voters, 1,000 were returned; and at Shawnee where there were but 40 legal voters, 1,200 were returned.—And yet this constitution, disowned by the very governor who had gone to Kansas as the agent of the president, rotten with corruption, gaping with fraud, and steaming with iniquity, was at once recognized by the president, urged upon congress in his annual message, and pressed for adoption by all the appliances of unprincipled power. If the words of Jugartha turning his back upon Rome cannot be repeated, that all had a price, it was not from any forbearance in the president. A single editor was offered the printing of the post office blanks (worth at least $80,000,) upon the condition that he should, by an editorial no larger than a man's hand, promise subserviency to the administration. Bribes of office were added to the bribes of money.—As the votes of electors had already been purchased to make Mr. Buchanan president, the votes of representatives were now solicited to carry out his scheme of corruption, and the halls of congress were turned into a political market house, where men were bought by the head. Is not all this enough to arouse the indignation of the people?

It is true that the President, whose power began in corruption, and who is the responsible author of the corruption by which his administration has been debased, is no longer a candidate for office. Already judgment has begun. His own political party has discarded him. The first avenging blow has been struck. Incorruptible history will do the rest. The tablets conspicuously erected in Genoa to expose the crimes of Doges, branding one as Fur Magnus and the other as Maximus Lathronum, will not be needed here. The exposed corruptor, the tyrant enslaver, and the robber of human freedom, cannot be forgotten. Unhappy President! After a long career of public service, not only tossed aside, but tossed over to perpetual memory as an example to be shunned. Better for him the oblivion of common life than the bad fame which he has won!

THE ISSUES OF THE PRESENT CAMPAIGN.

But though not himself a candidate for office, his peculiar supporters, animated by his spirit, linked with him in all his misrule, are embodied as a party, and ask your votes. Simply to resist this combination, and to save the republic from its degrading influence, would justify the formation of the republican party; and I doubt not that there are many who will be content to unite with us on this ground alone, anxious to put the national government once again in pure hands. To all such, welcome!

While this consummation necessarily enters into the present purposes of the republican party, while we naturally begin by insisting upon purity in the government, and make this one of our urgent demands, it is obvious that the quickening impulse of party is to be found in other purposes which cannot pass away in a single election. The republican party seeks to overthrow the slave oligarchy in the national government, and especially at this moment to stay its aggressions in the territories, which through a corrupt interpretation of the constitution, it threatens to barbarize with slavery. But all who seek purity in the national government must unite in this purpose, for only by the overthrow of this corrupt oligarchy, which, beginning in the denial of all human rights, necessarily shows itself in barbarism and corruption of all kinds, can a better order of things prevail. It is out of slavery that all our griefs proceed; nor can the corruptions of the present administration be fully comprehended without considering the nature of this evil and its chronic influence over our government, reaching everywhere by subtle agencies or more subtle far reaching example, but still in itself the original and all-sufficient activity. As well attempt to explain the Gulf Stream without the Gulf of Mexico, or the origin of evil without the human heart, as attempt to explain the present degraded character of our national government without slavery. As well attempt to enact the play of "Othello" without the Moor. And permit me to say that our warfare with these corruptions will be feeble unless we attack them in their origin.

The subject is so vast that I can undertake to expose it by glimpses only.

PROGRESS OF THE SLAVERY AGITATION.

At the beginning of our history, slavery was universally admitted to be an evil. Nobody then so hardy as to vindicate it. In the convention which framed the constitution, it was branded as a "nefarious institution," or more mildly called simply "wrong," and these generous voices came from the south as well as from the north. Out of the convention there was a similar accord. I shall not quote the words of Washington, Jefferson, or Franklin, or Jay, for they are familiar to all. But as they spoke others spoke, and I might occupy this whole evening, simply in reciting this testimony.—Nor were these declarations confined to men in public life. The colleges all, by special action, arrayed themselves against slavery, especially the University of William and Mary, in Virginia, which conferred upon Granville Sharpe, the acknowledged chief of British abolitionists, the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. The literature of the land, such as it was, agreed with the colleges. The church, too, added its powerful voice; and here, amid the diversities of religious faith, we hail that unity of spirit which animated all. Quakers, Methodists, Presbyterians, and Congregationalists seem almost to have vied with each other in this pious testimony.

The constitution was adopted, but the word "slave" was not allowed to pollute its text; and this was in declared deference to the prevailing opinion, which regarded slavery as temporary, destined soon to pass away. All looked forward to this glad day, which seemed to be almost at hand. In harmony with this existing expectation, slavery was prohibited in all the existing territories of the Union, so that when Washington, as first President of the United States, at his inauguration here in New York, took his first oath to support the constitution, the flag of the republic, nowhere in the land within the jurisdiction of congress, covered a single slave. Little then did the fathers dream that the evil which they regarded with shame, and which they exerted themselves to prohibit, would elevate its obscene crest, as it now does, and flaunt its pretensions before the world.—Little did they dream that the constitution, from which they had carefully excluded the very word, would, in defiance of reason and common sense, be held to protect the thing, so exceptionally that it could not be reached by congressional prohibition, even within congressional jurisdiction. Little did they dream that the text, which they left so pure and healthful, would, through corrupt interpretation, be swollen into such a hideous Elephantiasis.

Two circumstances, civilizing in themselves, have exercised an unexpected influence for slavery: first, the abolition of the slave trade, which, by taking away the supply, has increased the value of slaves; and secondly, the increased cultivation of cotton stimulated by the invention of new machinery. The last has been of especial influence. Indeed, it is hardly too much to say, that out of this slender cotton fibre have been formed the manacles of the slave. Thus, through sinister influences and the wickedness of men, is good made the minister of wrong. Next after Christopher Columbus, who, by his sublime enterprise, opened the pathway to the new world, Eli Whitney, who discovered the cotton gin, has been indirectly and unconsciously a chief agent in the bondage of the African race on the North American continent; and surely a proper gratitude for the advantages which we enjoy in such large store from these two discoveries, must prompt us to increased activity for the welfare of those who, alas! have been such losers where we have been such gainers.

This change of opinion, so disastrous in its results, was gradual. Though easily detected, in its successive stages, by the careful inquirer, it did not become manifest to the whole country till 1820, when it burst forth in the Missouri question. Then, for the first time, slavery openly showed itself violent, insolent, beligerent. Freedom was checked, but saved something by a compromise—called, at the moment of its adoption, by Charles Pinckney of South Carolina, "a triumph of the south," where, in consideration of the admission of Missouri as a slave state—thus securing an additional preponderance to the slave power—it was stipulated that slavery should be prohibited in certain outlying territory, at the time trodden only by savages. Then came a lull, during which the change was still at work, until, cotemporaneous with the abolition of slavery in the British West Indies, the discussion was lighted anew. Meanwhile slaves had augmented in price, and slave-masters had become more decided in opinion. At first, in timid deference to the world, they ventured on no defence of slavery in the abstract; but at last, bolder grown under the lead of Mr. Calhoun, they threw aside all reserve, openly assailed the opinions of the fathers, audaciously denied the self-evident truths of the declaration of independence, and by formal resolution asserted the new dogma of slavery in the territories. This was in 1847. A letter from Mr. Calhoun of that day, addressed to a member of the Alabama legislature, shows that there was an element of policy in the exaggeration. His desire was "to force the slavery issue" on the north, believing that delay was dangerous, as the slave-masters were relatively stronger, both morally and politically, than they would ever be again.

At last the end has come. Slavery is openly pronounced at one time "the black-marble key-stone of our national arch;" at another time "the corner-stone of our republican edifice;" then it is vaunted as "the highest type of civilization;" then as "a blessing to the master as well as to the slave;" and then again "as ennobling to the master if not to the slave." It is only the first step which costs, and therefore the authors of these opinions, so shocking to the moral sense, do not hesitate at other opinions equally shocking to the reason, which pretend to find impossible sanctions for slavery in the constitution. Listening to these extravagances, who would exclaim with Ben Johnson, in the play,

> Grave father, he's possest again I say,
> Possest. Nay, if there be possession
> And obsession, he hath both.

TRUE CHARACTER OF THE INSTITUTION.

And now, fellow citizens, what is slavery? This is no question merely of curiosity or philanthropy; for when the national government, which you and I at the north help to constitute, is degraded to be its instrument, and all the national territories are proclaimed open to its barbarism, and the constitution itself is perverted to sanction its pretensions, the whole subject logically and necessarily enters into our discussion. It cannot be avoided—it cannot be blinked out of sight. Nay, you must pass upon it by your votes at the coming election. Futile is the plea that we at the north have nothing to do with slavery. Granted that we have nothing to do with it in the states, we have much to do with all its irrational pretensions under the constituion, and just so long as those irrational pretensions are urged, slavery must be discussed. It must be laid bare in its enormity precisely as though it were proposed to plant it here in New York. Nor can such a wrong—foul in itself and fouler still in its pretensions—be dealt with tamely. Tameness is surrender; and charity, too, may be misapplied. Forgiving those who trespass against us, I know not if we are called to forgive those who trespass against others; to forgive those who trespass against a race; to forgive those who trespass against the republic; to forgive those who trespass against civilization; to forgive those who trespass against a whole race; to forgive those who trespass against the universal human family; finally, to forgive those who trespass against God. Such tresspassers now exist among us—possessing the organization of party—possessing the control of the national government—constituting at this moment a colossal power—and "what seems its head the likeness of a president has on."

Surely, if ever there was a moment when every faculty should be bent into the service, and all should be invigorated by an inspiring zeal falsely rejected by the heartless diplomatist, it is now, while the battle between Civilization and Barbarism is still undecided, and you are summoned to resist the last desperate shock. To this work I am not equal; but I do not shrink from the duties of my post. Alas! human language is gentle, and the human voice is weak. Words only are mine, when I ought to command thunderbolts. Voice only is mine when, like the ancient Athenian, I ought to carry the weapons of Zeus on the tongue.

What, then, I repeat, is slavery? The occasion forbids details; but enough must be presented to place this outrage in a true light—as something worse even than a constant state of war where the master is the constant aggressor. And here I put aside for the moment all the tales which reach us from the house of bondage; all the cumulative, crushing testimony, alike from slaves and from their masters: all the barbarous incidents which have helped to arouse a yet too feeble indignation; in short all the glimpses which have come to us from this mighty Blue Beard's chamber. All these I put aside, not because they are of little moment in exhibiting the true character of slavery, but because I desire to arraign slavery on grounds above all controversy, impeachment or suspicion, even from slave masters themselves. Not on triumphant story, adorned by the genius of women; not even on indisputable facts do I now accuse slavery; but on its character as revealed in its own simple definition of itself. Out of its own mouth do I condemn it.

THE ESSENTIAL ELEMENTS.

By the law of slavery, man created in the image of God, fearfully and wonderfully made, with sensibilities of pleasure and pain, with sentiments of love, with aspirations for improvement, with a sense of propriety, and with a soul like ourselves, is divested of his human character, and declared to be a mere chattel "to all intents and purposes whatsoever." I do not stop to give at length all its odious words; you are doubtless familiar with them. But in this simple definition is contained the whole incalculable wrong of slavery; for out of it, as from an inexhaustible fountain, are derived all the unrighteous prerogatives of the master. These are five in number, and I know not which is the most revolting.

First—There is the pretension that man can hold property in man, forgeting that by a law older than all human law, foremost stands the indefeasible right of every man to himself.

Secondly—The absolute nullification of the relation of husband and wife, so that all who are called slaves are delivered over to concubinage or prostitution, it may be with each other, or it may be with their masters; but with whomesoever it may be, it is the same, for with slaves marriage is impossible, as they are always "coupled" never married.

Thirdly—The absolute nullification of the relation of parent and child, for the infant legally belongs, not to the mother who bore it, but to the master who bought it.

Fourthly—The absolute denial of instruction; for the master may always at his own discretion prevent his victim from learning to read, and thus shut upon him those gates of knowledge which open such vistas on earth and in Heaven. And

Fifthly—The absolute robbery of the labor of another and of all its fruits; forgetful that by the same original law under which every man has a title to the fruits of his own labor, amounting in itself to a sacred property, which no person, however called, whether despot or master, can rightcously appropriate.

Such are the five essential elements of Slavery. Look at them, and you will confess that this institution stands forth as a hateful assemblage of unquestionable wrong under the sanction of existing law. Take away any one of these, and just to that extent slavery will cease to exist. Take away all and the slavery question will be settled. But this assemblage becomes more hateful still when its unmistakable single motive is detected, which is simply this—to compel labor without wages. Incredible as it may seem, it cannot be denied that the right of a man to himself—the right of a husband to his wife—the right of a parent to his child—the right of a man to instruction—the right of a man to the fruits of his own labor—all these supreme rights by the side of which other rights are petty, are trampled down, in order to organize that five headed selfishness, practically maintained by the lash, which, look at as you will, has for its single object COMPULSORY LABOR WITHOUT WAGES.

ALL SORTS OF PARAGRAPHS.

The Milwaukee Sentinel says that one of the experienced produce dealers, yesterday, estimated the grain crop of Wisconsin for the year 1860 to be equivalent to twenty millions of bushels of wheat! Should this prove not exaggerated and prices keep up to the present standard, this would represent a value of twenty millions of dollars. That would answer for one year.

The Madison Journal publishes a letter from Providence, Rhode Island, which says that about a half million of dollars of Wisconsin farm mortgages are held in that city and that the holders of them "are disposed to sympathise with the farmers and ready to settle with them on general terms."

The hay crop this year will be abundant in quantity and excellent in quality. The Madison Journal says that it was never better in that vicinity, and that new timothy can now be contracted for at six dollars a ton.

W. A. Hawkins, the old proprietor of the Lake House, Milwaukee, and once a member of assembly, was recently massacred by the Indians in the neighborhood of Pike's Peak.

☞ A Bell and Everett state convention has been held in Alabama which declares, in one of its resolutions, that it is the duty of congress to legislate for the protection of slavery. All parties must take ground for or against slavery. It is the great question, and no union or democratic party can avoid the responsibility of taking a position in relation to it.

☞ The republicans of Michigan have made the following nominations. They are all new men but Mr. Kellogg:

1st dist.—Bradley F. Granger of Washtenaw county.

2d dist.—Fernando C. Beaman of Lenawa county.

3d dist.—Francis W. Kellogg of Kent county.

4th dist.—Rowland E. Trowbridge of Oakland county.

Madame Kossuth, the sister of the Hungarian patriot, whose death we have mentioned, was buried from the Unitarian church in Brooklyn, Rev. Drs. Farley, Osgood and Bellows, taking part in the ceremonies.—She had placed on her arm a bracelet made of the iron chain by which her brother had been bound in an Austrian prison, and some of the native soil of Hungary was scattered by the hands of her children on the grave.

THE ECLIPSE.—The eclipse of the sun will commence at eight minutes past six o'clock to-morrow morning, at Chicago; one minute earlier at Milwaukee, and seven minutes earlier at Madison. We have not the exact time of its commencement at this place, but probably not far from five minutes past six. The middle of the eclipse will not be far from seven o'clock. This eclipse will only be partial here. It will be total at Oregon City, passing over America to Hudson's Bay, crossing it at Nelson's River to Cape Chidley in Labrador, to which place the Smithsonian Institute has despatched a vessel with a scientific corps on board to take observations of the interesting phenomenon.

A SAD AFFAIR.—A MAN KILLED BY A HORSE.—We learn that Mr. Horace Fessenden, of the town of Porter, in this county, was killed this morning, as is supposed, by the kick of a horse. Just before daylight Mr. F. was seen coming from the stable into his house, and immediately after entering the door, fell upon the floor in an insensible condition. Upon examination it was found that there was a lengthy cut upon the side of his head, and that the skull was crushed in upon the brain. Dr. Palmer of this city informs us that the bone was badly fractured, that pieces of it were driven through the lining membrane of the brain, and that important blood vessels were ruptured. Mr. Fessenden lived but a short time after the skull was trephined, and was continually insensible, rendering it impossible to learn from him how the accident occurred.

It appears that the horses, of which there were six in one stable, were uneasy during the night, and it is supposed that Mr. Fessenden went out quite early to learn the cause, and that in passing behind one of them, which is somewhat fractious, he stooped down to pick up a piece of harness, when he was kicked upon the temple. A pool of blood was found at this particular place, near where a part of harness was lying. It is the opinion of Dr. Palmer, judging from the condition of the blood in the wound, that Mr. F. had not been hurt more than ten or fifteen minutes before he entered the house. This is a very sad affair, which suddenly terminates the life of a highly respected citizen.

EXTENSION OF THE MADISON AND BELOIT RAILROAD.—We learn from Mr. Abeel, the agent of the Galena and Chicago Union railroad, that the laying of the track west of Footville was commenced yesterday, and that the work will be vigorously prosecuted until the road is finished into Madison.—The causes and agents which have produced this result are no friendly ones to the interests of Janesville.

☞ The falling of a block of buildings at St. Joseph, Missouri, on the 10th inst., crushed and buried nine persons to death, among whom was Mrs. Virginia Cogswell, recently married, wife of Mr. Cogswell, who is a son of J. S. Cogswell, of this city. Mr. Cogswell, the son, it was thought, was also fatally injured.

THE LARGEST FLEECE.—We are informed by Mr. Ira H. Leavenworth of Bradford, in this county, that he sheared a fleece from one of his half blood merino sheep, this spring, weighing 21 pounds and 11 ounces. This was the growth of one season. Mr. L.'s belief is that he is indebted to abundance of feed and good shelter for this enormous growth of wool.

MEETING AT BURLINGTON—There was a large and enthusiastic crowd of people at the republican mass meeting at Burlington, on Saturday last. Speeches were made by Senator Doolittle, Gov. Randall and Lieut. Gov. Noble. The campaign has been gloriously commenced in Racine county.

THE NATIONAL DEMOCRACY OF IOWA.—The Davenport Democrat of Saturday contains a call signed by nearly one hundred of the leading democrats of Iowa, for a mass convention, favorable to the nomination of Breckinridge and Lane, to be held at Davenport on the 15th day of August next, "to organize the party and transact such other business as may come before the convention."

MILTON ACADEMY.—We take pleasure in calling attention to the advertisement announcing the opening of the fall term of the Milton Academy. It is one of the best academic institutions in the west, and well deserves the ample support which it receives from the public.

DEMOCRATIC FUSION A FAILURE.—The correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette, writing from Washington, under date of July 13th, says: The democratic troubles increase rather than diminish. All the schemes of fusion of the two wings of the democracy seem certain of failure, except perhaps in New York. In that state also, where the Breckinridge men are in the minority, they will hardly unite with the Douglasites, when they find the latter in all other states decline any such arrangement. In Virginia the pleadings of the Richmond Enquirer have been in vain, and two new state conventions are to be held—one at Charlottesville and one at Stanton. The first is to put up a Breckinridge and the other a Douglas electoral ticket.

ANOTHER SORROW FOR THE RUMPS.—A new national democratic paper has been established at Janesville, Wis., under the name of the Daily National Flag. It earnestly supports Breckinridge and Lane, and vigorously cuffs the ears of the squatterites. —Press and Tribune.

The Journal and the Herald also give the new paper a passing notice. When are we to have another number?

THE PEOPLE IN MOTION.—There was a grand republican rally at Paoli, Dane county, on Friday. The Madison Journal estimates the number of people present at 5000. The speakers were Attorney General Howe, Judge Jackson, M. H. Orton and J. W. Johnson.

Telegraphic.

REPORTED FOR THE DAILY GAZETTE.

BY WISCONSIN STATE TELEGRAPH LINE, Office in Union Passenger Depot.

MADISON, July 17.

A fire this forenoon burned a frame building in the first ward, owned by Mr. Balke of St. Louis, and occupied as a cabinet shop. The furniture was saved. Loss not estimated, but not large.

Chas. Geo. Mayers, foreman of Engine Co. No. 1, was hit on the head by some part of the engine and seriously but not dangerously injured.

LA CROSSE, July 17.

Jacob Reider, the German who murdered his mother-in-law and sister-in-law on the 10th inst., at Brownsville, Minnesota, shot himself dead in his own house yesterday afternoon. He had been secreted within a few miles of the place since committing the murder. He was asked by the crowd outside the house who had traced him there if he would surrender himself to the people. The reply was the discharge of a gun. Persons rushing in found him in the last agonies of death.

DANBURY, Conn., July 17.

An unusually severe thunder storm passed over this place last evening. Lightning struck a dwelling on Spring street, instantly killing Patrick Lynch, and slightly damaging the building. The lightning also struck in several places outside of Danbury.

OGDENSBURGH, July 17.

Mr. Day, a law student of this place, and Mr. Derby, of Russell, in this county, were in the woods on a hunting expedition yesterday, Day shot Derby through the heart, mistaking him for a deer. He died instantly.

PHILADELPHIA, July 17.

The race between Flora Temple and Geo. M. Patchin advertised for Thursday at the Point Breeze Park track, will not take place. A $1,200 purse was raised for the winning horse, but Patchin refuses to run unless he receives $1,000—win or lose.

NEW YORK, July 17.

The Times' Washington correspondent says that the New French minister's first official communication to the state department, was an announcement that France and England had declared war against China, giving assurance that neutral goods excepting contraband would be protected.—The "World's" correspondent, says Senator Clingman has writen a letter declining to support Douglas. John Morrissey publishes a challenge to Heenan, offering to fight him in four months, for from $10 to $10,000 a side. Nearly 6,000 persons visited the Great Eastern yesterday. The Chicago Zouaves visit her Wednesday by invitation, and will perform drill movements on her deck. Post Master General Holt gave notice yesterday, that all avenues, streets, lanes, &c., in New York, are post roads—all private letter carriers are ordered to be suppressed after the 1st of August. Thirty-three dwelling houses were burned yesterday in Washington street, occupied by 43 families. Loss $27,000. The meeting last evening in Union Square of Fillmore and conservative men, who are in favor of Lincoln and Hamlin was very large and enthusiastic. Judge Wm. McChell presided.—Speeches were made by Horace Greeley, Rufus Andrews, Dan'l Ullman, and letters were read from Roger S. Baldwin of Conn., Jas. O. Putnam, Truman Smith and others. Resolutions endorsing Lincoln and Hamlin were passed unanimously. A despatch to the Tribune, says Mr. McLane's return from Mexico, doubtless looks to his withdrawal from the mission, as there is no immediate prospect of such a change in Mexican affairs as may demand his attention.

The Market.

NEW YORK, July 17.

Flour market without striking change—5,15a5,20 super state, 5,40a5,50 extra state, 5,15a5,20 super western, 5,30a5,50 common to medium extra western. Rye flour, 3,50 a4,20. Wheat market about 1c better with rather more export demands. Mil. club, 1,29a1,30.

Mr. Jervis has tandered the grain dealers and commission merchants of Milwaukee, an invitation to take a trip over the Milwaukee and Missisippi Railroad to Prairie du Chien and back any time between now and the 1st of August, "free of charge." The invitation was accepted, and a committee appointed to see that the grain dealers on their return "switch off" properly at Janesville and are not carried to Chicago.

BASKETS NOT CLAIMED.—There are several baskets at the store of J. T. Wright, that were returned from the picnic. The owners are requested to call and get them.

Life Insurance.

Those desiring this safest and cheapest protection for their families, can secure it in our Wisconsin company. It has already become, in reality, a state institution, having agents and patrons among the best business men in all the principal towns in the state. It is no longer a matter of doubt that life insurance can be conducted as well in Wisconsin as in Connecticut or any other eastern state.

While duty demands that men should insure their lives, it also demands that they should keep their money for investment at home. Confident that our success has been more than equal to that of the most "unprecedented," we would cordially invite all our citizens to call at the office, southwest corner of Main and Wisconsin streets, and examine for themselves.

S. S. DAGGETT, President.
A. W. KELLOGG, Secretary.

☞ Messrs. Pixley & Harlow, produce dealers, and Capt. Geo. S. Dodge will receive applications for insurance in this home company, and will also be happy to give information as to the condition thereof, to any one desirous of being informed, in Janesville.

Mr. Sumner's Speech.

We publish, to-day, a part of the speech of Hon. Charles Sumner, delivered at Cooper's Institute, in New York, on the 11th inst. We shall publish the conclusion to-morrow. It is a great speech, and displays much care in its preparation. The question which he investigates so boldly is that of slavery, and he does it with a master's hand. It is well at this time, while the presidential conflict is going on around us, to appreciate what the contest is about, and why the republican party is banded together to resist the spread of the giant wrong of slavery. An attentive perusal of Mr. Sumner's speech will, we think, convince a large majority of our readers of the duty and necessity of a continued and unflinching opposition to the spread of human bondage in this nation. Nothing else, we firmly believe, will avert the downfall of the republic.

BANKERS' MEETING.—We have seen in several of our exchanges the proceedings of the bankers' meeting held in this city last week, with a request for the papers of the state to copy them. We would have complied with this request very cheerfully if they had been furnished us at the same time they were given to other daily papers out of the city, and would now do so, under an explanation since made to us as to the cause of the omission to furnish them on the adjournment of the meeting, if they had not passed from our reach among the exchanges we have disposed of.

This meeting was not a private one, as we supposed, and the published proceedings relate entirely to the reception of Illinois currency on deposite at par. If we remembered rightly, 27 banks were represented, and the resolutions adopted, after reciting the fact that some of the Milwaukee banks had violated an agreement to receive Illinois currency only at one-half per cent discount, re-affirm a determination to adhere to the original decision, and characterise the action of the Milwaukee banks as hostile to the interests of the country banks. This decision was not, we understand, arrived at unanimously, some of the delegates in the meeting regarding the discrimination against Illinois currency as unjust and unwise.

We do not assume to be much versed in banking matters, or the intricate questions of currency, but with the light we have on this subject we coincide with the minority of the meeting. The discrimination against the currency of an adjoining state with which our own business is intimately connected, may be beneficial to the interests of our state banks, especially if the condemned currency is received at a discount and paid out or exchanged at par: but this discrimination seems hostile to the interests of business men who deal in that currency, and if persisted in will result in a refusal to deposite the proscribed currency and its transmission by express to Chicago, where it will realise its face or purchase eastern exchange at current rates, without the loss of a half cent on each dollar.

We think the true policy of our own city banks would be to follow the example of the Milwaukee banks, particularly as the far greater portion of our lake shore business is with Chicago, where the Illinois currency is in as good repute as Wisconsin currency in this state. It is not unlikely that our Wisconsin banks generally will be driven to disregard the restriction a portion of them desire to impose, and that they will find their own interests to be identical with those of their depositors and customers.

THE "COMING MAN."—We have the Louisville Journal's authority for saying that Gen. Jo Lane, whom the opponents of Mr. Lincoln are trying to elevate to the presidency, dated one of his letters from Mexico, some years ago, Vera Croose; and that while spelling his own name with a capital letter, he spells the name of the Almighty with a small g.

They do say that "Jo" is the most illiterate and ignorant "specimen" that has ever had a seat in the United States Senate. About all he knows is to fawn around the southern fire-eaters and do their dirty work. If half that's said of him is true, he is not only a "dough face," but also a "dough-head."

The wool clip of Ohio will amount to nine millions of pounds, and distribute among the farmers about four millions of dollars.

SPEECH OF HON. CHAS. SUMNER.

[Concluded from the outside.]

great metropolis, and in the chain of cause and effect, to assure the triumph of the democratic candidate. I speak now only what has been proved. Fraudulent naturalization papers in blank, by which this was perpetrated, have been produced before a committee of congress. It was natural that an administration thus corrupt in origin should continue to exercise power thro' the same corruption through which power was gained; but nothing else than that insensibility to acts of shame, which is bred by familiarity, can explain how all this should be done with such absolute indecency of exposure—wearing scarcely so much as a fig leaf.

A letter from a local politician, addressed to the president himself, urging without disguise the giving of a large contract for machinery to a particular house in Philadelphia, employing four hundred and fifty mechanics, with a view to the approaching election, was enclosed to the secretary of navy, with this indorsement in a well-known handwriting: "Sept. 15, 1858. The enclosed letter from Col. Patterson, of Philadelphia, is submitted to the attention of the secretary of navy. J. B." Thus did the president of the United States, in formal written words, now of record in the history of the country, recommend the employment of the public money, set apart for the public service, to influence an election. Here was corruption as positive as when his supporters purchased votes in the streets.—From one, learn all; and from such a characteristic instance, learn the character of the administration. But there are other well known instances, and the testimony before the congressional committees discloses the president on Sundays in secret conclave with one of his corrupt agents, piously occupied in discussing the chances of an election, and how its expenses were to be met, while at the same time, like another Joseph Surface, he was uttering in public fine sentiments of political morality, and lamenting the prevalence of the very indecencies in which he was engaged.

THE KANSAS FRAUDS.

It was natural that a president, who with professions of purity on the lips, made himself the pander of such vulgar corruption, should stick at nothing needed to carry his purposes. I shall not dwell on the Lecompton constitution, but it belongs to this chapter. You all know its wickedness. Concocted originally at Washington, with the single purpose of fastening slavery upon the people of Kansas, it was with execrable contrivance so arranged as to prevent the people, when about to become a state, from voting on that question. Next, sanctioned by a convention of usurpers, who in no respect represented the people of Kansas; then fraudulently submitted to the people for their votes, it was fraudulently adopted by stuffing ballot boxes on a scale never before known—thus at the Delaware crossing where there were but 43 legal voters, 400 were returned; at Oxford where there were but 42 legal voters, 1,600 were returned; and at Shawnee where there were but 40 legal voters, 1,260 were returned.—And yet this constitution, disowned by the very governor who had gone to Kansas as the agent of the president, rotten with corruption, gaping with fraud, and steaming with iniquity, was at once recognized by the president, urged upon congress in his annual message, and pressed for adoption by all the appliances of unprincipled power. If the words of Jugurtha turning his back upon Rome cannot be repeated, that all had a price, it was not from any forbearance in the president. A single editor was offered the printing of the post office blanks (worth at least $80,000,) upon the condition that he should, by an editorial no larger than a man's hand, promise subserviency to the administration. Bribes of office were added to the bribes of money.—As the votes of electors had already been purchased to make Mr. Buchanan president, the votes of representatives were now solicited to carry out his scheme of corruption, and the halls of congress were turned into a political market house, where men were bought by the head. Is not all this enough to arouse the indignation of the people?

It is true that the President, whose power began in corruption, and who is the responsible author of the corruption by which his administration has been debased, is no longer a candidate for office. Already judgment has begun. His own political party has discarded him. The first avenging blow has been struck. Incorruptible history will do the rest. The tablets conspicuously erected in Genoa to expose the crimes of Doges, branding one as Fur Magnus and the other as Maximus Latronum, will not be needed here. The exposed corruptor, the tyrant enslaver, and the robber of human freedom, cannot be forgotten. Unhappy President! After a long career of public service, not only tossed aside, but tossed over to perpetual memory as an example to be shunned. Better for him the oblivion of common life than the bad fame which he has won!

THE ISSUES OF THE PRESENT CAMPAIGN.

But though not himself a candidate for office, his peculiar supporters, animated by his spirit, linked with him in all his misrule, are embodied as a party, and ask your votes. Simply to resist this combination, and to save the republic from its degrading influence, would justify the formation of the republican party; and I doubt not that there are many who will be content to unite with us on this ground alone, anxious to put the national government once again in pure hands. To all such, welcome!

While this consummation necessarily enters into the present purposes of the republican party, while we naturally begin by insisting upon purity in the government, and make this one of our urgent demands, it is obvious that the quickening impulse of party is to be found in other purposes which cannot pass away in a single election. The republican party seeks to overthrow the slave oligarchy in the national government, and especially at this moment to stay its aggressions in the territories, which through a corrupt interpretation of the constitution, it threatens to barbarize with slavery. But all who seek purity in the national government must unite in this purpose, for only by the overthrow of this corrupt oligarchy, which, beginning in the denial of all human rights, necessarily shows itself in barbarism and corruption of all kinds, can a better order of things prevail. It is out of slavery that all our griefs proceed; nor can the corruptions of the present administration be fully comprehended without considering the nature of this evil and its chronic influence over our government, reaching everywhere by subtle agencies or more subtle far reaching example, but still in itself the original and all-sufficient activity. As well attempt to explain the Gulf Stream without the Gulf of Mexico, or the origin of evil without the human heart, as attempt to explain the present-degraded character of our national government without slavery. As well attempt to enact the play of "Othello" without the Moor. And permit me to say that our warfare with these corruptions will be feeble unless we attack them in their origin.

The subject is so vast that I can undertake to expose it by glimpses only.

PROGRESS OF THE SLAVERY AGITATION.

At the beginning of our history, slavery was universally admitted to be an evil. Nobody then so hardy as to vindicate it. In the convention which framed the constitution, it was branded as a "nefarious institution," or more mildly called simply "wrong," and these generous voices came from the south as well as from the north. Out of the convention there was a similar accord. I shall not quote the words of Washington, Jefferson, or Franklin, or Jay, for they are familiar to all. But as they spoke others spoke, and I might occupy this whole evening, simply in reciting this testimony.—Nor were these declarations confined to men in public life. The colleges all, by special action, arrayed themselves against slavery, especially the University of William and Mary, in Virginia, which conferred upon Granville Sharpe, the acknowledged chief of British abolitionists, the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. The literature of the land, such as it was, agreed with the colleges. The church, too, added its powerful voice; and here, amid the diversities of religious faith, we hail that unity of spirit which animated all. Quakers, Methodists, Presbyterians, and Congregationalists seem almost to have vied with each other in this pious testimony.

The constitution was adopted, but the word "slave" was not allowed to pollute its text; and this was in declared deference to the prevailing opinion, which regarded slavery as temporary, destined soon to pass away. All looked forward to this glad day, which seemed to be almost at hand. In harmony with this existing expectation, slavery was prohibited in all the existing territories of the Union, so that when Washington, as first President of the United States, at his inauguration here in New York, took his first oath to support the constitution, the flag of the republic, nowhere in the land within the jurisdiction of congress, covered a single slave. Little then did the fathers dream that the evil which they regarded with shame, and which they exerted themselves to prohibit, would elevate its obscene crest, as it now does, and flaunt its pretensions before the world.—Little did they dream that the constitution, from which they had carefully excluded the very word, would, in defiance of reason and common sense, be held to protect the thing, so exceptionally that it could not be reached by congressional prohibition, even within congressional jurisdiction. Little did they dream that the text, which they left so pure and healthful, would, through corrupt interpretation, be swollen into such a hideous Elephantiasis.

Two circumstances, civilizing in themselves, have exercised an unexpected influence for slavery: first, the abolition of the slave trade, which, by taking away the supply, has increased the value of slaves; and secondly, the increased cultivation of cotton stimulated by the invention of new machinery. The last has been of especial influence. Indeed, it is hardly too much to say, that out of this slender cotton fibre have been formed the manacles of the slave. Thus, through sinister influences and the wickedness of men, is good made the minister of wrong. Next after Christopher Columbus, who, by his sublime enterprise, opened the pathway to the new world, Eli Whitney, who discovered the cotton gin, has been indirectly and unconsciously a chief agent in the bondage of the African race on the North American continent; and surely a proper gratitude for the advantages which we enjoy in such large store from these two discoveries, must prompt us to increased activity for the welfare of those who, alas! have been such losers where we have been such gainers.

This change of opinion, so disastrous in its results, was gradual. Though easily detected, in its successive stages, by the careful inquirer, it did not become manifest to the whole country till 1820, when it burst forth in the Missouri question. Then, for the first time, slavery openly showed itself violent, insolent, beligerent. Freedom was checked, but saved something by a compromise—called, at the moment of its adoption, by Charles Pinckney of South Carolina, "a triumph of the south," where, in consideration of the admission of Missouri as a slave state—thus securing an additional preponderance to the slave power—it was stipulated that slavery should be prohibited in certain outlying territory, at the time trodden only by savages. Then came a lull, during which the change was still at work, until, cotemporaneous with the abolition of slavery in the British West Indies, the discussion was lighted anew. Meanwhile slaves had augmented in price, and slave-masters had become more decided in opinion. At first, in timid deference to the world, they ventured on no defence of slavery in the abstract; but at last, bolder grown under the lead of Mr. Calhoun, they threw aside all reserve, openly assailed the opinions of the fathers, audaciously denied the self-evident truths of the declaration of independence, and by formal resolution asserted the new dogma of slavery in the territories. This was in 1847. A letter from Mr. Calhoun of that day, addressed to a member of the Alabama legislature, shows that there was an element of policy in the exaggeration. His desire was "to force the slavery issue" on the north, believing that delay was dangerous, as the slave-masters were relatively stronger, both morally and politically, than they would ever be again.

At last the end has come. Slavery is openly pronounced at one time "the black-marble key-stone of our national arch;" at another time "the corner-stone of our republican edifice;" then it is vaunted as "the highest type of civilization;" then as "a blessing to the master as well as to the slave;" and then again "as ennobling to the master if not to the slave." It is only the first step which costs, and therefore the authors of these opinions, so shocking to the moral sense, do not hesitate at other opinions equally shocking to the reason, which pretend to find impossible sanctions for slavery in the constitution. Listening to these extravagances, who would exclaim with Ben Johnson, in the play,

> Grave father, he's possest again I say,
> Possest. Nay, if there be possession
> And obsession, he hath both.

TRUE CHARACTER OF THE INSTITUTION.

And now, fellow citizens, what is slavery? This is no question merely of curiosity or philanthropy; for when the national government, which you and I at the north help to constitute, is degraded to be its instrument, and all the national territories are proclaimed open to its barbarism, and the constitution itself is perverted to sanction its pretensions, the whole subject logically and necessarily enters into our discussion. It cannot be avoided—it cannot be blinked out of sight. Nay, you must pass upon it by your votes at the coming election. Futile is the plea that we at the north have nothing to do with slavery. Granted that we have nothing to do with it in the states, we have much to do with all its irrational pretensions under the constitution, and just so long as those irrational pretensions are urged, slavery must be discussed. It must be laid bare in its enormity precisely as though it were proposed to plant it here in New York. Nor can such a wrong—foul in itself and fouler still in its pretensions—be dealt with tamely. Tameness is surrender; and charity, too, may be misapplied. Forgiving those who trespass against us, I know not if we are called to forgive those who trespass against others; to forgive those who trespass against a race; to forgive those who trespass against the republic; to forgive those who trespass against civilization; to forgive those who trespass against a whole race; to forgive those who trespass against the universal human family; finally, to forgive those who trespass against God. Such tresspassers now exist among us—possessing the organization of party—possessing the control of the national government—constituting at this moment a colossal power—and "what seems its head the likeness of a president has on."

Surely, if ever there was a moment when every faculty should be bent into the service, and all should be invigorated by an inspiring zeal falsely rejected by the heartless diplomatist, it is now, while the battle between Civilization and Barbarism is still undecided, and you are summoned to resist the last desperate shock. To this work I am not equal; but I do not shrink from the duties of my post. Alas! human language is gentle, and the human voice is weak. Words only are mine, when I ought to command thunderbolts. Voice only is mine when, like the ancient Athenian, I ought to carry the weapons of Zeus on the tongue.

What, then, I repeat, is slavery? The occasion forbids details; but enough must be presented to place this outrage in a true light—as something worse even than a constant state of war where the master is the constant aggressor. And here I put aside for the moment all the tales which reach us from the house of bondage; all the cumulative, crushing testimony, alike from slaves and from their masters; all the barbarous incidents which have helped to arouse a yet too feeble indignation; in short all the glimpses which have come to us from this mighty Blue Beard's chamber. All these I put aside, not because they are of little moment in exhibiting the true character of slavery, but because I desire to arraign slavery on grounds above all controversy, impeachment or suspicion, even from slave masters themselves. Not on triumphant story, adorned by the genius of women; not even on indisputable facts do I now accuse slavery; but on its character as revealed in its own simple definition of itself. Out of its own mouth do I condemn it.

THE ESSENTIAL ELEMENTS.

By the law of slavery, man created in the image of God, fearfully and wonderfully made, with sensibilities of pleasure and pain, with sentiments of love, with aspirations for improvement, with a sense of propriety, and with a soul like ourselves, is divested of his human character, and declared to be a mere chattel "to all intents and purposes whatsoever." I do not stop to give at length all its odious words; you are doubtless familiar with them. But in this simple definition is contained the whole incalculable wrong of slavery; for out of it, as from an inexhaustible fountain, are derived all the unrighteous prerogatives of the master. These are five in number, and I know not which is the most revolting.

First—There is the pretension that man can hold property in man, forgetting that by a law older than all human law, foremost stands the indefeasible right of every man to himself.

Secondly—The absolute nullification of the relation of husband and wife, so that all who are called slaves are delivered over to concubinage or prostitution, it may be with each other, or it may be with their masters; but with whomesoever it may be, it is the same, for with slaves marriage is impossible, as they are always "coupled" never married.

Thirdly—The absolute nullification of the relation of parent and child, for the infant legally belongs, not to the mother who bore it, but to the master who bought it.

Fourthly—The absolute denial of instruction; for the master may always at his own discretion prevent his victim from learning to read, and thus shut upon him those gates of knowledge which open such vistas on earth and in Heaven. And

Fifthly—The absolute robbery of the labor of another and of all its fruits; forgetful that by the same original law under which every man has a title to the fruits of his own labor, amounting in itself to a sacred property, which no person, however called, whether despot or master, can rightously appropriate.

Such are the five essential elements of Slavery. Look at them, and you will confess that this institution stands forth as a hateful assemblage of unquestionable wrong under the sanction of existing law. Take away any one of these, and just to that extent slavery will cease to exist. Take away all and the slavery question will be settled. But this assemblage becomes more hateful still when its unmistakable single motive is detected, which is simply this—to compel labor without wages. Incredible as it may seem, it cannot be denied that the right of a man to himself—the right of a husband to his wife—the right of a parent to his child—the right of a man to instruction—the right of a man to the fruits of his own labor—all these supreme rights by the side of which other rights are petty, are trampled down, in order to organize that five headed selfishness, practially maintained by the lash, which, look at as you will, has for its single object COMPULSORY LABOR WITHOUT WAGES.

ALL SORTS OF PARAGRAPHS.

The Milwaukee Sentinel says that one of the experienced produce dealers, yesterday, estimated the grain crop of Wisconsin for the year 1860 to be equivalent to twenty millions of bushels of wheat! Should this prove not exaggerated and prices keep up to the present standard, this would represent a value of twenty millions of dollars. That would answer for one year.

The Madison Journal publishes a letter from Providence, Rhode Island, which says that about a half million of dollars of Wisconsin farm mortgages are held in that city and that the holders of them "are disposed to sympathise with the farmers and ready to settle with them on general terms."

The hay crop this year will be abundant in quantity and excellent in quality. The Madison Journal says that it was never better in that vicinity, and that new timothy can now be contracted for at six dollars a ton.

W. A. Hawkins, the old proprietor of the Lake House, Milwaukee, and once a member of assembly, was recently massacred by the Indians in the neighborhood of Pike's Peak.

☞ A Bell and Everett state convention has been held in Alabama which declares, in one of its resolutions, that it is the duty of congress to legislate for the protection of slavery. All parties must take ground for or against slavery. It is the great question, and no union or democratic party can avoid the responsibility of taking a position in relation to it.

☞ The republicans of Michigan have made the following nominations. They are all new men but Mr. Kellogg:

1st dist.—Bradley F. Granger of Washtenaw county.

2d dist.—Fernando C. Beaman of Lenawa county.

3d dist.—Francis W. Kellogg of Kent county.

4th dist.—Rowland E. Trowbridge of Oakland county.

Madame Kossuth, the sister of the Hungarian patriot, whose death we have mentioned, was buried from the Unitarian church in Brooklyn, Rev. Drs. Farley, Osgood and Bellows, taking part in the ceremonies.—She had placed on her arm a bracelet made of the iron chain by which her brother had been bound in an Austrian prison, and some of the native soil of Hungary was scattered by the hands of her children on the grave.

The Eclipse.—The eclipse of the sun will commence at eight minutes past six o'clock to-morrow morning, at Chicago; one minute earlier at Milwaukee, and seven minutes earlier at Madison. We have not the exact time of its commencement at this place, but probably not far from five minutes past six. The middle of the eclipse will not be far from seven o'clock. This eclipse will only be partial here. It will be total at Oregon City, passing over America to Hudson's Bay, crossing it at Nelson's River to Cape Chidley in Labrador, to which place the Smithsonian Institute has despatched a vessel with a scientific corps on board to take observations of the interesting phenomenon.

A Sad Affair.—A Man Killed by a Horse.—We learn that Mr. Horace Fessenden, of the town of Porter, in this county, was killed this morning, as is supposed, by the kick of a horse. Just before daylight Mr. F. was seen coming from the stable into his house, and immediately after entering the door, fell upon the floor in an insensible condition. Upon examination it was found that there was a lengthy cut upon the side of his head, and that the skull was crushed in upon the brain. Dr. Palmer of this city informs us that the bone was badly fractured, that pieces of it were driven through the lining membrane of the brain, and that important blood vessels were ruptured. Mr. Fessenden lived but a short time after the skull was trephined, and was continually insensible, rendering it impossible to learn from him how the accident occurred.

It appears that the horses, of which there were six in one stable, were uneasy during the night, and it is supposed that Mr. Fessenden went out quite early to learn the cause, and that in passing behind one of them, which is somewhat fractious, he stooped down to pick up a piece of harness, when he was kicked upon the temple. A pool of blood was found at this particular place, near where a part of harness was lying. It is the opinion of Dr. Palmer, judging from the condition of the blood in the wound, that Mr. F. had not been hurt more than ten or fifteen minutes before he entered the house. This is a very sad affair, which suddenly terminates the life of a highly respected citizen.

Extension of the Madison and Beloit Railroad.—We learn from Mr. Abeel, the agent of the Galena and Chicago Union railroad, that the laying of the track west of Footville was commenced yesterday, and that the work will be vigorously prosecuted until the road is finished into Madison.—The causes and agents which have produced this result are no friendly ones to the interests of Janesville.

☞ The falling of a block of buildings at St. Joseph, Missouri, on the 10th inst., crushed and buried nine persons to death, among whom was Mrs. Virginia Cogswell, recently married, wife of Mr. Cogswell, who is a son of J. S. Cogswell, of this city. Mr. Cogswell, the son, it was thought, was also fatally injured.

The Largest Fleece.—We are informed by Mr. Ira H. Leavenworth of Bradford, in this county, that he sheared a fleece from one of his half blood merino sheep, this spring, weighing 21 pounds and 11 ounces. This was the growth of one season. Mr. L.'s belief is that he is indebted to abundance of feed and good shelter for this enormous growth of wool.

Meeting at Burlington.—There was a large and enthusiastic crowd of people at the republican mass meeting at Burlington, on Saturday last. Speeches were made by Senator Doolittle, Gov. Randall and Lieut. Gov. Noble. The campaign has been gloriously commenced in Racine county.

The National Democracy of Iowa.—The Davenport Democrat of Saturday contains a call signed by nearly one hundred of the leading democrats of Iowa, for a mass convention, favorable to the nomination of Breckinridge and Lane, to be held at Davenport on the 15th day of August next, "to organize the party and transact such other business as may come before the convention."

Milton Academy.—We take pleasure in calling attention to the advertisement announcing the opening of the fall term of the Milton Academy. It is one of the best academic institutions in the west, and well deserves the ample support which it receives from the public.

Democratic Fusion a Failure.—The correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette, writing from Washington, under date of July 13th, says: The democratic troubles increase rather than diminish. All the schemes of fusion of the two wings of the democracy seem certain of failure, except perhaps in New York. In that state also, where the Breckinridge men are in the minority, they will hardly unite with the Douglasites, when they find the latter in all other states decline any such arrangement. In Virginia the pleadings of the Richmond Enquirer have been in vain, and two new state conventions are to be held—one at Charlottesville and one at Stanton. The first is to put up a Breckinridge and the other a Douglas electoral ticket.

Another Sorrow for the Rumps.—A new national democratic paper has been established at Janesville, Wis., under the name of the Daily National Flag. It earnestly supports Breckinridge and Lane, and vigorously cuffs the ears of the squatterites. —Press and Tribune.

The Journal and the Herald also give the new paper a passing notice. When are we to have another number?

The People in Motion.—There was a grand republican rally at Paoli, Dane county, on Friday. The Madison Journal estimates the number of people present at 5000. The speakers were Attorney General Howe, Judge Jackson, M. H. Orton and J. W. Johnson.

Telegraphic.

REPORTED FOR THE DAILY GAZETTE.

BY WISCONSIN STATE TELEGRAPH LINE, Office in Union Passenger Depot.

Madison, July 17.

A fire this forenoon burned a frame building in the first ward, owned by Mr. Balke of St. Louis, and occupied as a cabinet shop. The furniture was saved. Loss not estimated, but not large.

Chas. Geo. Mayers, foreman of Engine Co. No. 1, was hit on the head by some part of the engine and seriously but not dangerously injured.

La Crosse, July 17.

Jacob Reider, the German who murdered his mother-in-law and sister-in-law on the 10th inst., at Brownsville, Minnesota, shot himself dead in his own house yesterday afternoon. He had been secreted within a few miles of the place since committing the murder. He was asked by the crowd outside the house who had traced him there if he would surrender himself to the people. The reply was the discharge of a gun. Persons rushing in found him in the last agonies of death.

Danbury, Conn., July 17.

An unusually severe thunder storm passed over this place last evening. Lightning struck a dwelling on Spring street, instantly killing Patrick Lynch, and slightly damaging the building. The lightning also struck in several places outside of Danbury.

Ogdensburgh, July 17.

Mr. Day, a law student of this place, and Mr. Derby, of Russell, in this county, were in the woods on a hunting expedition yesterday, Day shot Derby through the heart, mistaking him for a deer. He died instantly.

Philadelphia, July 17.

The race between Flora Temple and Geo. M. Patchin advertised for Thursday at the Point Breeze Park track, will not take place. A $1,200 purse was raised for the winning horse, but Patchin refuses to run unless he receives $1,000—win or lose.

New York, July 17.

The Times' Washington correspondent says that the New French minister's first official communication to the state department, was an announcement that France and England had declared war against China, giving assurance that neutral goods excepting contraband would be protected.—The "World's" correspondent, says Senator Clingman has writen a letter declining to support Douglas. John Morrissey publishes a challenge to Heenan, offering to fight him in four months, for from $10 to $10,000 a side. Nearly 6,000 persons visited the Great Eastern yesterday. The Chicago Zouaves visit her Wednesday by invitation, and will perform drill movements on her deck. Post Master General Holt gave notice yesterday, that all avenues, streets, lanes, &c., in New York, are post roads—all private letter carriers are ordered to be suppressed after the 1st of August. Thirty-three dwelling houses were burned yesterday in Washington street, occupied by 43 families. Loss $27,000. The meeting last evening in Union Square of Fillmore and conservative men, who are in favor of Lincoln and Hamlin was very large and enthusiastic. Judge Wm. McChell presided.—Speeches were made by Horace Greeley, Rufus Andrews, Dan'l Ullman, and letters were read from Roger S. Baldwin of Conn., Jas. O. Patnam, Truman Smith and others. Resolutions endorsing Lincoln and Hamlin were passed unanimously. A despatch to the Tribune, says Mr. McLane's return from Mexico, doubtless looks to his withdrawal from the mission, as there is no immediate prospect of such a change in Mexican affairs as may demand his attention.

The Market.

New York, July 17.

Flour market without striking change—5,15a5,20 super state, 5,40a5,50 extra state, 5,15a5,20 super western, 5,30a5,50 common to medium extra western. Rye flour, 3,50 a4,20. Wheat market about 1c better with rather more export demands. Mil. club, 1,29a1,30.

Mr. Jervis has tendered the grain dealers and commission merchants of Milwaukee, an invitation to take a trip over the Milwaukee and Mississipi Railroad to Prairie du Chien and back any time between now and the 1st of August, "free of charge." The invitation was accepted, and a committee appointed to see that the grain dealers on their return "switch off" properly at Janesville and are not carried to Chicago.

Baskets not Claimed.—There are several baskets at the store of J. T. Wright, that were returned from the picnic. The owners are requested to call and get them.

Life Insurance.

Those desiring this safest and cheapest protection for their families, can secure it in our Wisconsin company. It has already become, in reality, a state institution, having agents and patrons among the best business men in all the principal towns in the state. It is no longer a matter of doubt that life insurance can be conducted as well in Wisconsin as in Connecticut or any other eastern state.

While duty demands that men should insure their lives, it also demands that they should keep their money for investment at home. Confident that our success has been more than equal to that of the most "unprecedented," we would cordially invite all our citizens to call at the office, southwest corner of Main and Wisconsin streets, and examine for themselves.

S. S. DAGGETT, President.

A. W. Kellogg, Secretary.

☞ Messrs. Pixley & Harlow, produce dealers, and Capt. Geo. S. Dodge will receive applications for insurance in this home company, and will also be happy to give information as to the condition thereof, to any one desirous of being informed, in Janesville.

The Eclipse.—The eclipse of the sun will commence at eight minutes past six o'clock to-morrow morning, at Chicago; one minute earlier at Milwaukee, and seven minutes earlier at Madison. We have not the exact time of its commencement at this place, but probably not far from five minutes past six. The middle of the eclipse will not be far from seven o'clock. This eclipse will only be partial here. It will be total at Oregon City, passing over America to Hudson's Bay, crossing it at Nelson's River to Cape Chidley in Labrador, to which place the Smithsonian Institute has despatched a vessel with a scientific corps on board to take observations of the interesting phenomenon.

A Sad Affair.—A Man Killed by a Horse.—We learn that Mr. Horace Fessenden, of the town of Porter, in this county, was killed this morning, as is supposed, by the kick of a horse. Just before daylight Mr. F. was seen coming from the stable into his house, and immediately after entering the door, fell upon the floor in an insensible condition. Upon examination it was found that there was a lengthy cut upon the side of his head, and that the skull was crushed in upon the brain. Dr. Palmer of this city informs us that the bone was badly fractured, that pieces of it were driven through the lining membrane of the brain, and that important blood vessels were ruptured. Mr. Fessenden lived but a short time after the skull was trephined, and was continually insensible, rendering it impossible to learn from him how the accident occurred.

It appears that the horses, of which there were six in one stable, were uneasy during the night, and it is supposed that Mr. Fessenden went out quite early to learn the cause, and that in passing behind one of them, which is somewhat fractious, he stooped down to pick up a piece of harness, when he was kicked upon the temple. A pool of blood was found at this particular place, near where a part of harness was lying. It is the opinion of Dr. Palmer, judging from the condition of the blood in the wound, that Mr. F. had not been hurt more than ten or fifteen minutes before he entered the house. This is a very sad affair, which suddenly terminates the life of a highly respected citizen.

Extension of the Madison and Beloit Railroad.—We learn from Mr. Abeel, the agent of the Galena and Chicago Union railroad, that the laying of the track west of Footville was commenced yesterday, and that the work will be vigorously prosecuted until the road is finished into Madison.—The causes and agents which have produced this result are no friendly ones to the interests of Janesville.

☞ The falling of a block of buildings at St. Joseph, Missouri, on the 10th inst., crushed and buried nine persons to death, among whom was Mrs. Virginia Cogswell, recently married, wife of Mr. Cogswell, who is a son of J. S. Cogswell, of this city. Mr. Cogswell, the son, it was thought, was also fatally injured.

The Largest Fleece.—We are informed by Mr. Ira H. Leavenworth of Bradford, in this county, that he sheared a fleece from one of his half blood merino sheep, this spring, weighing 21 pounds and 11 ounces. This was the growth of one season. Mr. L.'s belief is that he is indebted to abundance of feed and good shelter for this enormous growth of wool.

Meeting at Burlington.—There was a large and enthusiastic crowd of people at the republican mass meeting at Burlington, on Saturday last. Speeches were made by Senator Doolittle, Gov. Randall and Lieut. Gov. Noble. The campaign has been gloriously commenced in Racine county.

The National Democracy of Iowa.—The Davenport Democrat of Saturday contains a call signed by nearly one hundred of the leading democrats of Iowa, for a mass convention, favorable to the nomination of Breckinridge and Lane, to be held at Davenport on the 15th day of August next, "to organize the party and transact such other business as may come before the convention."

Milton Academy.—We take pleasure in calling attention to the advertisement announcing the opening of the fall term of the Milton Academy. It is one of the best academic institutions in the west, and well deserves the ample support which it receives from the public.

Democratic Fusion a Failure.—The correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette, writing from Washington, under date of July 13th, says: The democratic troubles increase rather than diminish. All the schemes of fusion of the two wings of the democracy seem certain of failure, except perhaps in New York. In that state also, where the Breckinridge men are in the minority, they will hardly unite with the Douglasites, when they find the latter in all other states decline any such arrangement. In Virginia the pleadings of the Richmond Enquirer have been in vain, and two new state conventions are to be held—one at Charlottesville and one at Stanton. The first is to put up a Breckinridge and the other a Douglas electoral ticket.

Another Sorrow for the Rumps.—A new national democratic paper has been established at Janesville, Wis., under the name of the Daily National Flag. It earnestly supports Breckinridge and Lane, and vigorously cuffs the ears of the squatterites.—Press and Tribune.

The Journal and the Herald also give the new paper a passing notice. When are we to have another number?

The People in Motion.—There was a grand republican rally at Paoli, Dane county, on Friday. The Madison Journal estimates the number of people present at 5000. The speakers were Attorney General Howe, Judge Jackson, M. H. Orton and J. W. Johnson.

Telegraphic

REPORTED FOR THE DAILY GAZETTE.

BY WISCONSIN STATE TELEGRAPH LINE, Office in Union Passenger Depot.

Madison, July 17.

A fire this forenoon burned a frame building in the first ward, owned by Mr. Balke of St. Louis, and occupied as a cabinet shop. The furniture was saved. Loss not estimated, but not large.

Chas. Geo. Mayers, foreman of Engine Co. No. 1, was hit on the head by some part of the engine and seriously but not dangerously injured.

La Crosse, July 17.

Jacob Reider, the German who murdered his mother-in-law and sister-in-law on the 10th inst., at Brownsville, Minnesota, shot himself dead in his own house yesterday afternoon. He had been secreted within a few miles of the place since committing the murder. He was asked by the crowd outside the house who had traced him there if he would surrender himself to the people. The reply was the discharge of a gun. Persons rushing in found him in the last agonies of death.

Danbury, Conn., July 17.

An unusually severe thunder storm passed over this place last evening. Lightning struck a dwelling on Spring street, instantly killing Patrick Lynch, and slightly damaging the building. The lightning also struck in several places outside of Danbury.

Ogdensburgh, July 17.

Mr. Day, a law student of this place, and Mr. Derby, of Russell, in this county, were in the woods on a hunting expedition yesterday, Day shot Derby through the heart, mistaking him for a deer. He died instantly.

Philadelphia, July 17.

The race between Flora Temple and Geo. M. Patchin advertised for Thursday at the Point Breeze Park track, will not take place. A $1,200 purse was raised for the winning horse, but Patchin refuses to run unless he receives $1,000—win or lose.

New York, July 17.

The Times' Washington correspondent says that the New French minister's first official communication to the state department, was an announcement that France and England had declared war against China, giving assurance that neutral goods excepting contraband would be protected.—The "World's" correspondent, says Senator Clingman has writen a letter declining to support Douglas. John Morrissey publishes a challenge to Heenan, offering to fight him in four months, for from $10 to $10,000 a side. Nearly 6,000 persons visited the Great Eastern yesterday. The Chicago Zouaves visit her Wednesday by invitation, and will perform drill movements on her deck. Post Master General Holt gave notice yesterday, that all avenues, streets, lanes, &c., in New York, are post roads—all private letter carriers are ordered to be suppressed after the 1st of August. Thirty-three dwelling houses were burned yesterday in Washington street, occupied by 43 families. Loss $27,000. The meeting last evening in Union Square of Fillmore and conservative men, who are in favor of Lincoln and Hamlin was very large and enthusiastic. Judge Wm. McChell presided.—Speeches were made by Horace Greeley, Rufus Andrews, Dan'l Ullman, and letters were read from Roger S. Baldwin of Conn., Jas. O. Patnam, Truman Smith and others. Resolutions endorsing Lincoln and Hamlin were passed unanimously. A despatch to the Tribune, says Mr. McLane's return from Mexico, doubtless looks to his withdrawal from the mission, as there is no immediate prospect of such a change in Mexican affairs as may demand his attention.

The Market.

New York, July 17.

Flour market without striking change—5,15a5,20 super state, 5,40a5,59 extra state, 5,15a5,20 super western, 5,30a5,50 common to medium extra western. Rye flour, 3,50 a4,20. Wheat market about 1c better with rather more export demands. Mil. club, 1,29a1,30.

Mr. Jervis has tendered the grain dealers and commission merchants of Milwaukee, an invitation to take a trip over the Milwaukee and Missisippi Railroad to Prairie du Chien and back any time between now and the 1st of August, "free of charge." The invitation was accepted, and a committee appointed to see that the grain dealers on their return "switch off" properly at Janesville and are not carried to Chicago.

Baskets not Claimed.—There are several baskets at the store of J. T. Wright, that were returned from the picnic. The owners are requested to call and get them.

Life Insurance.

Those desiring this safest and cheapest protection for their families, can secure it in our Wisconsin company. It has already become, in reality, a state institution, having agents and patrons among the best business men in all the principal towns in the state. It is no longer a matter of doubt that life insurance can be conducted as well in Wisconsin as in Connecticut or any other eastern state.

While duty demands that men should insure their lives, it also demands that they should keep their money for investment at home. Confident that our success has been more than equal to that of the most "unprecedented," we would cordially invite all our citizens to call at the office, southwest corner of Main and Wisconsin streets, and examine for themselves.

S. S. DAGGETT, President.

A. W. Kellogg, Secretary.

☞ Messrs. Pixley & Harlow, produce dealers, and Capt. Geo. S. Dodge will receive applications for insurance in this home company, and will also be happy to give information as to the condition thereof, to any one desirous of being informed, in Janesville.
